Britain And US Turn Problem Over To UN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States and Britain asked Saturday the U. N. Assembly to debate the "critical situation" caused by the deadlock with the Soviet Union on a proposed treaty to bar nuclear weapons tests.

The two Western powers addressed a note to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld proposing that the assembly take up the issue at the 16th General Assembly opening Sept. 19. This is tantamount to assuring full-scale consideration by the U. N. membership.

3 Hurt In Plane Crash Near Marshall

Three Brunswick, Mo., men were injured when a 1947 model Piper three-place cruiser they rented crashed in a soybean field about 10 miles north of Marshall at 3:15 p.m. Saturday.

Injured were Douglas S. Price, 40, the pilot; Denny Meyer, 29, and Guy Spencer, 29, who rented the plane from the Municipal Airport in Marshall. They were treated in Fitzgibbon Hospital in Marshall by Dr. C. A. McBurney, Slater.

Spencer received internal injuries; Meyer received several broken ribs and internal injuries; and Price received compound fractures of both legs. He underwent surgery at the hospital. All three were admitted for further treatment and observation.

Sammy Goldin, manager of the Marshall Airport, reported to Saline County Sheriff Steve Rimmer the men had rented the plane for a local flight.

A local flight, Rimmer said, is one in which the plane has no definite destination, but only cruises in the area of the airport.

Meyer told Sheriff Rimmer the plane took off, headed north and a little east, and at a point about 10 miles north of Marshall fell into the field. Rimmer said Meyer reported the plane was making

The $250 million super carrier, subject of a controversy over reputed deficiencies in construction, was eased through the Delaware River en route to the Atlantic. The 60,000-ton, 1,047-foot ship is so large that the Delaware had to be closed to all other shipping for two hours while the Kitty Hawk moved downstream.

Two Red Countries See Threat In Tito

TOKYO (AP) — Red China and North Korea declared a belief Saturday that "the main danger to the present international Communist movement" is in the revisionism of Yugoslavia.

"A resolute struggle must be waged against it," the two Asian allies said in a joint communiqué broadcast less than 48 hours after the windup of a Yugoslav-Soviet love feast in Moscow.

Despite this slap at the independent communism of President Tito, the communists tended to minimize reported friction between Peiping and Moscow. At several points it voiced strong support for policies of the Soviet Union, including Berlin.

Premier Khrushchev has been trying off and on for years to heal the Stalin era split between Moscow and Belgrade over divergence of Tito's Yugoslav party from the Kremlin line—the Communist sin called revisionism.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and Yugoslav Foreign Minister Koca Popovic announced only Thursday that their nations' positions on most international problems coincide. This statement, issued after a week-long visit by Popovic to Moscow, indicated relations between those two nations are the warmest in a long time.

With Exposition Shows

Tipton's Tri-County Fair Opens Wednesday for 4 Days

Tipton's 15th annual Tri-County fair, a presentation of the Tri-County Agricultural and Mechanical Society, Inc., opens Wednesday for a four-day run.

Wednesday's traditional free admission night kicks off a full schedule of livestock and horse shows and farm and home products exhibits. Gala Exposition Shows will play throughout the fair on the carnival midway.

The bill of fare opening night includes a swine and sheep show with judging beginning at 7 p.m. A dog show is also slated.

Thursday night begins the first of three official hours of America walking horse shows expected to attract some of the finest saddle horses and exhibitors in Missouri. The fair is a member of the Missouri Horse Show Association and judging will be by an accredited three and five-gaited saddle horse judge, fair officials report.

Special classes on the Thursday program include a best pony ring for young riders under 16 and a pony chariot race. Also on the Thursday slate are awarding of 4-H and FFA exhibit prizes and presentation of ribbons in farm mechanics competition.

Top ring in the Friday night horse show will be the men's amateur walking horse competition with the winner collecting $20 of a $62.50 total purse, according to directors.

Highest purses go to winners in Saturday night's stake shows. Top horses and riders in the state are expected to vie for the $200 total of prize money in the walking horse stake — top show of

To Vote on $500,000 Hospital Bond Issue

BLOOMFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Stoddard County residents will vote Tuesday in a special election on a once-defeated $500,000 bond issue proposal to finance a county hospital.

Last May 23 the issue, which requires a two-thirds majority for passage, was rejected by a narrow margin. The vote was 3,008 for and 1,627 against.

The federal government would match the $500,000 raised by the county.

Could Direct Retaliation From A Ship

ABOARD THE U.S.S. NORTH-AMPTON (AP) — Someday — if an enemy should knock out the Pentagon and other command centers—the President and U. S. military chiefs may fly to this ship to direct the nation's strike-back.

Without saying it in so many words, Navy officers make it clear that this unique 17,200-ton vessel would serve as an emergency national command post at sea, difficult for foe to find and destroy.

Vice Adm. Claude V. Ricketts, soon to take over as the Navy's second in command, told newsmen who visited the vessel this week that the $95-million Northampton has all the facilities to "act as a command post for every echelon of government."

The 677-foot vessel was the nerve center of a big NATO fleet maneuver this week. It is equipped to communicate with far-flung Navy ships, Army forces and air bases.

The Northampton can reach across the world by voice, teletypewriter and radio code message. Newsmen were shown how a message was sent around the globe and back to the ship in 1.8 seconds.

"We have in the Northampton the greatest amount of communications equipment of any ship in the world," Ricketts said.

Further — and of vital importance in any national war effort — the ship is capable of receiving detailed strategic and tactical intelligence from all ground, sea and air services. And it can display the information in a form to enable the President and his top commanders to reach their military judgment.

To aid in the decision-making, Ricketts said, the Northampton has aboard a complete library, meaning war plans, operational blueprints and the like.

The ship, literally packed with electronics gear, can be tied into the bomb alarm system by radio, the admiral said.

The bomb alarm system is emplaced at key air and missile bases, military and government centers, industrial and population concentrations. It is rigged to flash an automatic signal in event a nuclear bomb exploded within its range. Thus, top chiefs would be told instantaneously where an enemy has struck and how extensive the attack is.

East-West Showdown Over Berlin Access Is Prepared

Refugees Pour Into West Berlin At A Record Rate

BERLIN (AP) — East and West prepared Saturday for a show-down in divided Berlin on just who is permitted to come to this isolated outpost of the Western world. From Red-ruled East Germany, refugees were pouring in at a record rate. There were 675 new ones counted at Marienfelde Camp by 11:30 Saturday morning, when the books—but not the reception machinery—closed down for the weekend. The comparable figure last Saturday was only 477.

US Will Give Russia Hands Off Notice

Note May Carry Softer Impact Due To Being Late

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will give Russia a firm hands-off-Berlin notice early next week, about three weeks later than originally planned. The delay may soften the impact of the warning on Soviet leaders.

At a time when Western officials say allied unity is of vital importance, the difficulty which the Western powers had in agreeing on the wording of the note reflects a diversity of views which could easily be interpreted in Moscow as basic disunity.

Top U. S. officials say that actually the United States, Britain, France and West Germany are solidly united on preserving basic Western rights in West Berlin, even at the risk of an East-West military showdown.

They are described as equally determined to protect their rights of access from West Germany to Red-encircled West Berlin. But in some official quarters here there is concern about the delays and frustrations encountered in translating an accord on basic issues into action as the Berlin crisis deepens.

One result of the obstacles encountered is that any initiative by the Western powers becomes extremely difficult to arrange. By contrast, Soviet policy-making processes are highly centralized under Premier Khrushchev.

The new U. S. note on Berlin is a reply to one which Khrushchev handed President Kennedy at Vienna on June 4. Grim in tone, Khrushchev's note avowed Russia's determination to move to ward what he calls a Berlin "settlement," by which he means to force the United States, Britain and France out of West Berlin.

The United States began consulting with Britain, France and West Germany on a reply immediately after the Vienna conference. U. S. officials then said the reply would go to Moscow before the end of June.

By the last week in June inquiries were met with the assurance that the allies were fully agreed on their basic principles for Berlin—which has been true for years—that they were decided on the form of the note and that they were still working on its wording.

Two Die As Speeding Sports Car Flips

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A sports car traveling at an estimated 100 miles an hour left a highway early Saturday, killing two persons and critically injuring a third.

The car missed a curve on U. S. 50 at Noland Road in southeast Kansas City, flipped end-over-end for more than 200 feet and crashed into a utility pole.

The victims were Robert A. Franklin, 23, De Soto, Kan., believed to be the driver, and Mrs. Dorothy M. Bach, 24, Kansas City.

Mrs. Bach's husband, Andrew Bach, 27, was reported in fair condition at a hospital. The Bachs were married only two weeks ago.

Fifth Person To Survive Long Plunge

Negro Proves His Love As He Integrates Horseshoe Falls

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (AP) — A Negro, strapped inside an eight foot, rubber-coated steel ball, successfully rode over the 161-foot Horseshoe Falls Saturday and said he did it "for love" and to "integrate" the giant cataract.

Nathan Boya, 30, of New York, became the fifth person in history to negotiate the tumbling drop and escaped unharmed.

"I did it to integrate the falls," Niagara park commission police quoted Boya. "I'm a Negro and proud of it," he said.

The ball, with a two-foot dent in it, was towed to the Canadian side of the Niagara River after the plunge. Boya was seen as he opened the hatch and waved to thousands of stunned spectators.

He was taken into custody by park police and was held on a charge of illegal entry.

"I'm happy I did it. It's something I've always wanted to do," Boya told investigators when he was taken to a hospital for a physical check-up. He was reported in good condition, having suffered only a few scratches on his arms.

The ball, dented into pears-shape was equipped with a snorkel breathing device. Boya had steeled himself with a safety belt for the ride.

Boya told police the ride had been planned several months ago with Jean Lussier, the only other living survivor of a stunt-ride over the Horseshoe. He said Lussier, who went over the falls 32 years ago in a rubber barrel, aided in the design of the sphere.

Boya said the idea stemmed from a now-faded romance with a French girl while he was stationed with the Army in France, in 1947.

He said they had talked of marriage and a honeymoon at the famous tourist center.

"During our talks, the subject of daredevils had come up. I told her that men in this country do such things to prove their love—like the knights of old." He said they had agreed that he would thus prove his love.

Congressional Sparks Seen Over Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the damper the Kennedy administration has put on civil rights legislation at this session of Congress, some sparks will fly before adjournment.

A first flurry may break out Monday at a Senate Judiciary Committee meeting over nominations President Kennedy has submitted to fill vacancies on the Civil Rights Commission.

More controversy is in store later over a move to extend the life of the commission, due to expire Sept. 9. But touchiest of all is a proposed change in Senate rules to make it easier to halt filibusters.

Up for action by the judiciary committee are the nominations of Erwin N. Griswold, dean of the Harvard University Law School, and Spottswood N. Robinson III, dean of the Howard University Law School here, to be members of the Civil Rights Commission.

These appointments, and the nomination of Berl I. Bernhard of Washington to be staff director of the commission, were passed by a subcommittee to the full judiciary committee for consideration.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., took no vote.

Ervin told a reporter that Robinson, a Negro, has been active in civil rights litigation for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and that naming him to the commission was "like making a lawyer on one side a judge in a case."

He said it would have been just as logical to nominate a member of the segregationist white citizens councils.

Ervin conceded, however, that all three nominees for the civil rights posts probably will be confirmed despite the opposition of Southern senators.

Rep. Keating Commended For Assembly Work

Thomas D. Graham, Speaker of the Missouri House of Representatives, today commended Pettis County Representative Thomas T. Keating for his work in the 71st General Assembly.

Graham termed the 71st General Assembly a "spectacular success" and said Keating's "wholehearted cooperation" had contributed much to the work of the session.

Graham noted that Keating served as chairman of a subcommittee which drafted a substitute for two bills dealing with industrial development. The resulting legislation was passed by the House and Senate and signed by the Governor to permit cities to finance industrial development by the sale of general revenue or general obligation bonds if the people and the state approved.

Keating was one of two freshmen members who served on the appropriations committee, the Speaker said. In addition, Keating was a member of the industrial development, judiciary, municipal corporations and universities committees in the House.

An attorney, Keating is serving his first term in the Missouri House.

Shine Through Haze

Omens of a Rising Tempo In Business During Week

By ROGER LANE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—New omens of a rising tempo of business ahead shone during the week through a seasonal haze of summer slowdown signs.

Mostly, they came from the giant steel and auto industries, and in statistics out of Washington on gains in employment and production activity generally.

Encouraging word on sales and profits came from American Telephone & Telegraph Co., International Business Machines Corp., Du Pont and other industry bellwethers.

Cross-currents in steel mirrored the over-all picture.

The traditional summertime slump tightened its grip, yet a gush of orders for future delivery greatly heartened steelmen—and presumably their myriad manufacturing customers who generate steam in a wide sector of the economy.

Figures for the holiday-shortened Fourth of July week reflected a 7.6 per cent cut in output from the preceding week to 1,779,000 tons, a six-week low.

But Iron Age, a trade publication, reported orders for August 20 to 25 per cent above comparable advance data for May and June, both fairly good months.

January-June production was up 16 per cent from the preceding six months, when steelmakers were in the doldrums.

A somewhat similar pattern held in autos.

Although production was tapering off as the industry neared the end of 1961 model runs heralding wholesale but temporary employee layoffs, the sales picture was bright.

Turnover by dealers in June, while down 9 per cent from a year ago, saw a robust 538,746 cars find buyers, slightly behind May.

General Motors said the month was the best of the 1961 model run, aided by a surge in the last 10 days. The uptrend continued into the first one-third of July for principal Ford Motor Co. products.

The automakers and the United Auto Workers' Union bargained to supplant wage contracts expiring soon.

The talks proceeded in a generally hopeful atmosphere, and steel ordering by automen suggested they were not expecting a strike.

In Washington, unofficial figures subject to later adjustment put the economy's gross national product for the April-June quarter.

ter at $512 billion, $7 billion above the precession high and up $12 billion from the first quarter. The GNP measures the nation's total output of goods and services.

Even better news emerged from the Labor Department.

As of mid-June, it said, non-farm payrolls were up 600,000 from May 15, including a 240,000 rise—twice the expected seasonal increase—in factory employment.

Moreover, the average work week lengthened to 40.1 hours, a gain of .4, and average blue collar wages in manufacturing rose to $94.24, up $1.34 from a month earlier and a new all-time high.

Still, with employment at 68,706,000, the ranks of job-seekers, reinforced by newly graduated high school and college students, stood at a troubling level of 5,580,000, including 900,000 persons out of work 27 weeks or longer.

Production of textiles continued a six-month climb. Florida processors reported a record-high pack of frozen orange concentrate—82.4 million gallons—and a leading rubber industry figure predicted 1961 would go down as the second best year in replacement tires sales.

Comparative gloom persisted in the $27-billion assets railroad industry, as vital freight traffic sagged—partly because of spreading vacations in the coal mines.

Latest retail trade and department store sales data lacked any sparkle, although June activity was barely ahead of May.

In New York, the stock market put on a lackluster performance after a spurt the week before, and in Washington a congressional committee approved $750,000 to be used in an inquiry already under way into securities trading practices.

Sales on the stock exchange this week totaled 14,844,700 shares compared with 11,964,700 last week. Bond sales on the exchange totaled $31,712,000 (par value) this week against $28,799,000 the week before.

Briefly around the business scene—AT&T reported earnings of $326 million for the three months ended May 31, up from $311.9 million in the like 1960 quarter. The Business Advisory Council of the U.S. Department of Commerce severed governmental ties and reorganized as a private group in the wake of differences with Secretary Luther H. Hodges.

Man and Woman Die In Sports Car Accident

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A man and a woman were killed Saturday when their sports car missed a curve and smashed into a utility pole.

Police said the victims were tentatively identified as Robert A. Franklin, 27, DeSoto, Kan., believed to be the driver, and Dorothy M. Fares, 24, Kansas City.

A third man was injured. Police said he was Andrew Back, 27, who said he lived in Kentucky.

Police said the 1961 model sports car was traveling about 100 miles an hour when it left U. S. 50 at Noland Road. It struck a ditch and then traveled end over end for more than 200 feet before it struck the pole.

Franklin was pinned under the car. The woman's body was found about 50 feet away.

Britain's Dracone Proves To Be Useful Sea Serpent

By TOM A. CULLEN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

LONDON — (NEA) — British skippers have orders not to shoot if they spot an eel-like monster snaking its way through the water around this island.

It is not the Loch Ness monster straying from its Scotland base, but one of the new rubber-and-nylon towing containers which major British oil companies are using to transport petroleum products.

These containers are called Dracones, from the Greek word meaning serpent, and although they have been in operation less than three years they are revolutionizing oil transport here.

Over a million gallons of gasoline have been towed in Dracones from the Esso refinery at Fawley, Hampshire, to the Isle of Wight. Other Dracones are now in use in Germany, Canada, the West Indies, Nigeria, Malaya, Borneo and Australia.

A notable hold-out is the United States, where harbor masters and the U. S. Coast Guard view the Dracone suspiciously as a possible fire hazard. The inventors of the rubberized container vigorously deny such hazard exists.

The Dracone project goes back to the Suez crisis of 1956 when the British government, faced with the closing of the Suez Canal to ships flying the Union Jack, desperately turned to scientists for help. Britain's problem: to supplement its tanker fleet in hauling oil from the Middle East around the Cape of Good Hope.

Two Cambridge University professors came up with an idea which was brilliantly simple. Why not haul the oil in flexible, sausage-like containers of 10,000-tons or more capacity?

The go-ahead signal was given for two small-scale models, known respectively as "Draconeel" and "Draconella," which were successful in their trials. As evolved, the Dracone has a skin made of nylon which is covered on the inside with rubber and on the outside with neoprene. It is said to be resistant to sunlight, salt water, oil, grease and abrasion.

Some of the advantages claimed for the Dracone by its backers: It is more economical to run; the Dracone is easily cleaned and stored and requires a minimum of maintenance.

It can take the beating of rough seas which no steel barge would stand up to. Recently a Dracone was towed through waves up to 12 feet high.

It is more maneuverable than a steel barge and can make a U-turn in a narrow waterway.

Returning empty Dracones presents no particular problem. They can be reeled up and stowed on board the towing vessel or blown up with air and towed home.

One of the most novel uses to which the Dracone has been put to date has been hauling fresh water to Greek islands in the Aegean Sea.

Long Beach Next Stop For Beauties

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—This seashore city of oil and earthquakes is the next stop on the midsummer beauty contest circuit. That local madness known as the Miss International Beauty Congress opens next week.

Some of the beauties have arrived but eyes won't really start popping until Thursday, when the main contingent comes by air from Europe, the Far East and other points.

Then the official ritual will begin. The girls—54 if they all show up—will be herded through rehearsals, civic luncheons, night shows, beauty parlor appointments, parades, etc., until the climatic night of Friday, July 28.

At this point a "Miss International of 1962" will be chosen and will take over the mythical reins of a tenuous kingdom from Stella Marquez of Colombia, the Miss I of 1961.

It is too early for any major crises, such as belated disclosure of a marital status. So it shapes up as a routine year except for a minor point.

There was a small costume problem but it seems to have been ironed out. Last year there were loud squawks from contestants who said the official play suit skirt made them look too hippy. Promoter Oscar Meinhardt said the playsuit has been re-designed to quiet this complaint.

Last year, when Meinhardt decided to go it alone after the sponsors took the Miss Universe Contest to Miami Beach, Fla., the bathing beauty feature was eliminated. Playsuits were substituted. Meinhardt said they were more modest and would attract more representation from some foreign nations where swim suits are frowned upon. The fact that one of the departing Miss Universe sponsors was a swim suit manufacturer may have had something to do with this.

The contest is now a noncommercial civic project. The city of Long Beach provides $80,000 a year to help with expenses.

We're Losing the Pigeon War

By WARD CANNEL
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Chin up, folks. But not too far up. A new nationwide roundup of evidence now shows conclusively that the pigeon is smarter than man. And a whole lot more influential. Anti-aircraft efforts have fallen far short of the mark and everything indicates a considerable explosion in the pigeon population. A California city tried tranquilizers mixed with feed to get rid of the 18,000 pigeons defacing the downtown area. When a pigeon got sleepy, it was trapped and packed off, its nest and eggs destroyed. Cost: about 40 cents per bird.

Result: suburban pigeons immediately flew in to take advantage of vacated city dwellings. In Washington, D. C., Chief Justice Earl Warren requested that Congress spend a paltry $33,000 to put an electric pigeon chaser atop the Supreme Court building. The request was made in 1958. It's still pigeon-holed.

Some cities have tried fly paper on their building ledges. It takes an average pigeon two days to learn how to kick the fly paper down to the street without getting stuck.

Each year New York adds a few more feet of low voltage electric line to the ledges of municipal buildings. This year there are 20 miles of anti-pigeon wiring. They have proved very helpful in preventing the pigeon nests from falling to the ground in heavy weather.

And so it goes. A complete rundown of modern man's attempts to cope with the problem is a real testament to the pigeon, which has been matching wits with us since 1620 when the first pair escaped from the cage that brought them from England.

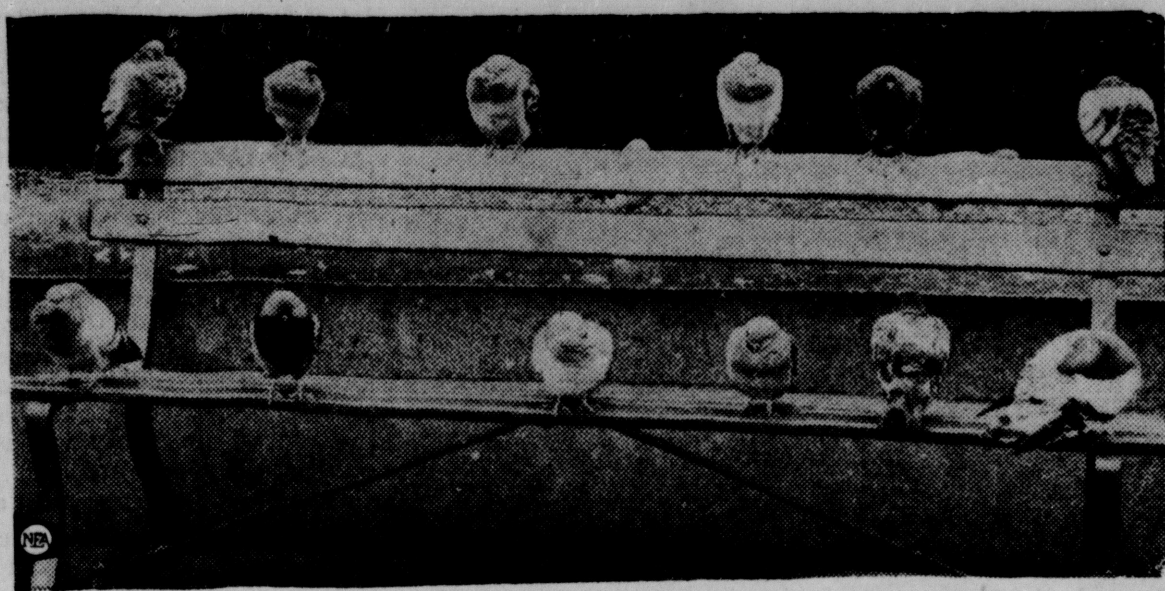

In the past year, some of our cities have tried evil-smelling compounds in roosting places. The result: several Ph.D. papers on birds' noses are wrong.

Other cities tried rubber owls and toy lizards in crucial corners. Wise-up time: 12 to 72 pigeon hours.

Chemicals to irritate the birds' feet and fireworks to frighten them away have proved to be both costly and annoying — to the pedestrians. Spikes and wire net in roosting areas turn out to be excellent foundations for nests.

There are still at least two unsettled lawsuits between city governments and electronics wizards who promised to get rid of the pigeons forever with high frequency.

To top it off, of course, it's illegal in most places to kill, maim or trap pigeons (or pigeon feeders). If a society against cruelty to birds doesn't descend on you, then it will be a cop, backed up by an ordinance on file at the city hall.

At this writing, unhappily, only two dim rays of hope break through.

In Uniondale, N. Y., a research and development laboratory is psychology. Science knows that (Porce-Cote) is finishing a one-year test of a monument to World War I heroes with a clear lamination washed by each passing rain. Lab chiefs, however, caution against unreasoning hope. The other way out, as usual,

4-H Judging Day Winners Are Named

The annual 4-H Judging Day was held Tuesday at the Broadway Presbyterian Church.

Foods, clothing, home management, home grounds, vegetables and woodwork by 4-H members were judged. The foods and clothing projects were divided into two age groups, under 12 years of age and 12 years of age and over.

There was a total of 127 members judging. Of this group 33 judged in more than one project.

The maximum score in any one project was 400 points.

The following received blue ribbons and will represent Pettis County in the district 4-H judging event in Sedalia Aug. 11.

Foods: Linda Callis, Hughesville Happy Helpers; Catherine Reid, Prairie Ridge; Linda Bales, Prairie Ridge. First alternate, Patricia Fiedler, Quisenberry Hustlers, and second alternate, Carol Brandhorst, Smelser.

Clothing: Sharon Ridenour, Van Natta Multi Workers; Mary Lee Blackburn, Houstonia; Mary Sue Simon, South Side County Liners. First alternate Mary Ann Brandhorst, Smelser, and second alternate, Donna Mittelhauser, Brown.

Home Management: Phyllis Butterwick, Van Natta Multi Workers; Donna Johnson, Van Natta Multi Workers; Donna DeMott, Striped College. First alternate, Marjorie Thomas, Tanglebrook, and second alternate (tie) Betty Logan, Tanglebrook, and Sheryl Hinkle, Striped College.

Home Grounds: Richard Chappell, Quisenberry Hustlers.

Vegetables: John Stephens, Longwood Neighbors; J. R. Greer, Longwood Neighbors; Richard Chappell, Quisenberry Hustlers. First alternate, Michial Dabner, Striped College, and second alternate, Jeanette Rugen, Lamine.

Some projects do not include judging. Such is true of woodwork but a county contest is conducted in Pettis County. The top three in the blue ribbon group were: Kent Vannoy, South Side County Liners; Paul Patterson, Striped College, and Charles E. Leiter, Striped College.

The Foods and Clothing groups in the under 12 group will not go to district. The top three blue ribbon winners in foods were: Janice Chappell, Quisenberry Hustlers; Marjorie Thomas, Tanglebrook, and Linda Mergen, Quisenberry Hustlers. In clothing they were Joan Likely, Van Natta Multi Workers; Jewel Craig and Yvonne Gieschen, Smithton.

Judges were Miss Bernice McVeigh, Saline County home agent; Mary Maddox, home economics teacher, Smith-Cotton High School and Merle Vaughan, Pettis County agent.

West German Naval Officer Sentenced As Spy for Soviets

KARLSRUHE, West Germany (AP)—A former West German naval officer was sentenced today to 10 years in prison for spying for the Soviet Union.

The court said former Lt. Cmdr. Walter Krenz was the first officer of West Germany's postwar armed forces to be convicted of espionage committed while in the service.

He gave the Soviets naval secrets from 1957 until his arrest last January, the court said. He was dishonorably discharged after his arrest.

Our Resistance Is Down So Life Span May Drop

By WARD CANNEL

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Can it be that the human race—as it is run in the U.S.—is being radically weakened by the miracles of modern science?

Consultation with the keepers of our vital statistics says—yes, it's more than likely.

Despite the tremendous gains in surgery, serums and specific medicines which have increased the average life expectancy by half since 1900:

More of us are surviving to retirement age nowadays, but we're really not living much longer once we get there.

In fact, we may be on the verge of a step backward in life expectancy.

The growing body of knowledge in longevity suggests that part of the blame belongs in our laboratories.

How come? Well, consider a few simple numbers gathered by U.S. insurance companies (which are quite interested in our life spans).

If you were born in 1900, you could have expected to live 47 years. But, with the conquest of the dread diseases of infancy and childhood, your life expectancy today is 70.

Curiously and grimly, according to Institute of Life Insurance Companies' figures, as childhood killers like diphtheria and TB are checked, the old-age killers—cancer and heart disease—are beginning to attack us at a younger age.

In addition, figures show, people who survive a cancer operation by 10 years or a heart attack by five probably will out-live normal expectancy because they've been shocked into taking very, very good care of themselves.

"Is science," Institute statisticians wonder, "letting more people live to middle age who would have died much younger in old times because they were weaker?"

So, if you had lived to age 65 in 1900, you could have expected to live on to nearly 77. Today, if you live to retirement age, you can expect to live on to 79.

That's a gain of only about two years in six decades of scientific miracles.

And, the numbers men say, don't be surprised to see the average life span take a dip in the next two or three decades—when time begins to run out on the generations born and reared during the greatest advance in anti-toxins and anti-biotics.

The only way out, it appears, is for more scientific miracles, especially a cure for cancer and circulatory diseases and-or a sure-fire method for making spare human parts.

In that event, we should be good for more than a century, according to a report on a comparative anatomy study from the Continental Assurance Co. Domesticated animals other than man, they say, frequently live to five times maturity age. On that basis, you should make it to age 120.

Or close to it. A study of our 95-year-old citizens (there are 35,000 of them in the U.S.) shows they come from all kinds of backgrounds, occupations and ways of life, according to a report by Eastern Life Insurance Co. It's just a matter of durability of the frame.

Will it be worth living to 120? Well, since the turn of the century as life expectancy has been increased by 23 years, the number of life insurance companies has jumped from 84 to 1,450 employing about a half million people today.

Add another 50 years to our life span and there just won't be any place left to hide from the insurance agents.

Movies and Dancing Are Tops for Dates

By EUGENE GILBERT
President, Gilbert Youth Research Co.

Here is an opening scene for a typical week-end script. . . You and your date, another couple, all settled comfortably in a car, and someone asks the inevitable question, "What are we going to do?"

Where do YOU usually end up? Well, if you are among the majority of your fellow teen-agers, you will probably go to a movie theatre, because this is the number one preference for the best way to spend an evening out, according to a third of the young people. It is relaxing, provides food for ensuing conversation over a soda, and is not too expensive.

Dancing would be your second choice, if you agree with one out of every five teenagers, and bowling would be next, for one out of ten. "I like dancing, and you can get better acquainted this way. Also, it is always popular with the girls," says Jack Winjum, 18, of Faribault, Minn.

In defense of bowling, Sue Hastings, 17, of Austin, Minn., says, "It's fun to be active. We're cooped up in school all week. On dates, it's more fun to do things than to sit in front of a movie screen."

Six per cent of the young people say they most enjoy staying home with their dates.

"You can relax, watch TV, eat, dance, just about anything," says Meridith Jural, 18, of Goshen, Conn. "And, your parents know where you are."

House parties and local hang-outs were also mentioned.

But 13 per cent of the girls, and 3 per cent of the boys enjoy spending an evening at a drive-in movie. In this age of machines, it was inevitable for motion pictures and automobiles to make some sort of union.

So, in answer to the question, "Did you ever go to a drive-in movie," we were not surprised to learn that 88 per cent, a whopping majority, have gone.

But, only 28 per cent admitted that they go often, as against 70 per cent of the teenagers who do not. The rest didn't say.

The boys and girls had different ideas on the next one. Whereas 45 per cent of the boys prefer a drive-in to a regular movie, the majority of the girls, 55 per cent, would rather see a movie at a movie theatre than go to a drive-in.

"You save gas," feels Pam Torfin, 17, of Austin, Minn.

Parents, as a matter of interest, are not a stumbling block. Two thirds of the youngsters say that their parents do not object to their going to a drive-in movie.

Glamor Out In Civil War Prison

By DALE BURGESS

INDIANAPOLIS — (AP) — The glamor and spectacle of conflict long past dominates the centennial observance of the Civil War.

But a simple marble monument at Crown Hill Cemetery in Indianapolis attests to the fact that all was not glamor and spectacle.

It marks the spot where 1,616 Confederate soldiers and sailors, their individual identities lost long ago, lie buried in a common grave. They died in the Union's Morton Prison.

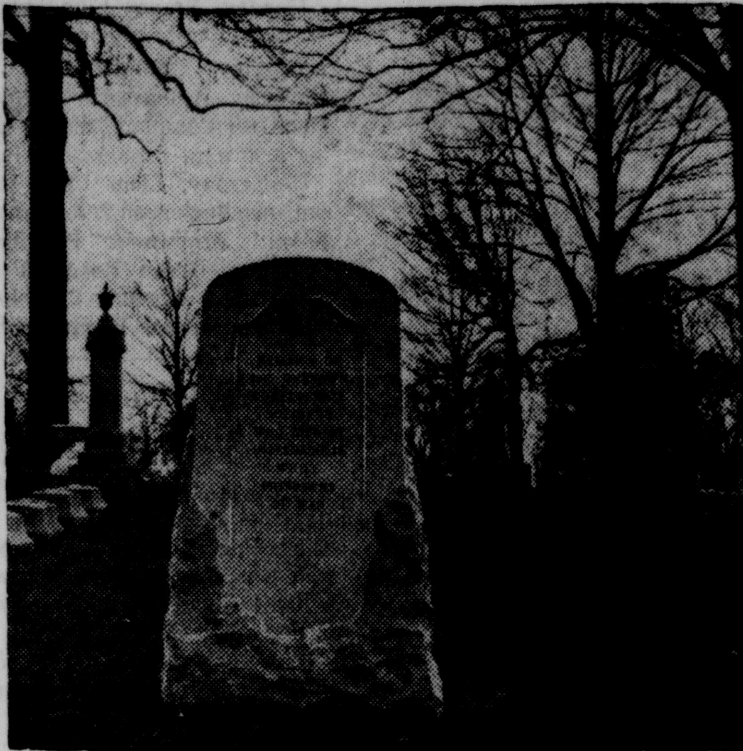

In its way, Morton Prison was as infamous in the South as Andersonville was in the North.

Yet, former Confederate prisoners thought so highly of its first commander, Col. Richard Owen, that they and their friends subscribed funds for a memorial bust which still stands in the Indiana statehouse.

"For his courtesy and kindness . . ." it says.

Col. Owen commanded the prison only four months after it received its first shipment of 3,700 prisoners in February, 1862. Under a succession of unwilling commanders, who would rather have been in the field, the prison deteriorated.

Augustus M. Clark, a government medical inspector, looked over the camp in October, 1863 and called it "a disgrace . . . filthy in every respect; condition of men in barracks exceedingly foul; in hospital, miserable."

SEAMY SIDE OF WAR: This marble monument in Crown Hill Cemetery, Indianapolis, marks the common grave of 1,616 Confederate soldiers and sailors who died in prison.

"In our heart there was no bitterness of feeling against them. . . They go back to a conquered country — to overgrown fields — to ruined villages — to homes, the chimneys of which only are left. . . War is a hard thing, and it leaves a black and damning trail."

Not a trace is left of Morton Prison, which used to be a mile and a half north of Indianapolis. Now the site is miles inside the city limits and covered with blocks of homes.

The dead prisoners were buried on what then was the west edge of the city, along White River, in Greenlawn Cemetery.

Industry crowded into the area and all the remains that could be found were shoveled into 25 boxes and moved to Crown Hill in 1928. Wooden grave markers had been weathered blank, long before.

A factory which makes chains now occupies the Greenlawn Cemetery site.

Col. Owen, the commander the prisoners liked, himself was captured at Munfordville, Ky., in September, 1863. On hand was Southern Gen. Simon B. Buckner, who had once been a prisoner in Indianapolis although he was permitted to stay in a hotel outside Morton Prison.

Buckner returned Col. Owen's sidearms and thanked him for his considerate treatment of his prisoners. The colonel was paroled and permitted to return to the North.

The poor fellows straggled down our streets in search of transportation to their homes. The departure of many of these has been delayed because they were in the hospital. As we saw them, haggard and pale, tottering along with their little poverty-stricken bundles, we felt sincerely sorry for them.

TRANSPARENT STEEL—It doesn't take a superman with X-ray vision to see through steel these days. This young lady, like many other Americans, can do it with ease. The paper thin piece of steel, rolled to a mere 6/1000 of an inch, achieves its transparency by being etched with 441,222 holes. The 21-inch diameter pieces of steel are made by a St. Paul, Minn., photoengraving firm for color television tubes.

Is a Rubber Ball

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — The only item in Mustafa Kharsa's kit of burglar tools was a rubber ball. Police said that he admitted picking up more than $600 worth of items in a dozen Aleppo homes as he hunted around the house to find the ball.

a turn when the pilot apparently lost control. The land where the plane crashed is owned by Raymond Arnold, Route 3, Marshall, and farmed by Tony Meyer, Rural Route, Slater.

Miss Mary McCord, who lives about one-fourth of a mile from the crash scene, told Sheriff Rimmer she heard a low-flying aircraft followed by a loud noise.

She said she went into the yard and saw a large cloud of dust just north of her home and saw two wheels sticking in the air. She immediately called Dr. Mc Birney to report the crash. The Haines Funeral Home ambulance was dispatched. In the meantime, Spencer had pulled himself from the wreckage and gone to the McCord home seeking help.

Miss McCord, Sheriff Rimmer said, took a bucket of water and some towels to the scene to administer to the injured. Rimmer said apparently Meyer also managed to get out of the plane and he and Spencer pulled Price out. The plane did not burn.

Sheriff Rimmer told the Democrat-Capital that Golden reported the plane was covered by loss insurance, but carried no liability insurance. Damage to the plane, which was "doubled over in the middle" with the tail under the fuselage, was estimated at about $2,500, Rimmer said.

Price was assumed to have a pilot's license, Rimmer said, since he had made several previous flights from the Marshall airport.

Golden told Rimmer, the sheriff said, the plane could not be removed from the crash scene until Federal Aviation Agency officials from Columbia had made an investigation. Rimmer said the FAA had been notified.

Under this proposal the Western powers would have one representative, the Soviet Union another, with the third a neutral. The council could act only by unanimous agreement.

The Western powers said this retracted earlier Soviet agreement for a single administrator to carry out directives of the treaty, and that under the latest Soviet proposal any action of the administrator could be blocked or delayed.

Biltbest Makes Proposal To End Tense Strike

STE. GENEVIEVE, Mo. (AP) — A management proposal to end the tense, explosive strike at the Biltbest Corp. plant in Ste. Genevieve, Mo., was made late Saturday. It will be presented to the union membership for a vote Monday at 2 p.m. CST.

The proposal came near the end of an 8-hour negotiation session at the union hall in Ste. Genevieve which broke up at 4 o'clock. Details of the proposal weren't disclosed.

Union attorney Leo Rozier, a former state senator, said the union negotiating committee had not decided whether to recommend approval of the management proposal.

"There are still some problems," Rozier said. "The negotiating committee will meet before the membership meeting and probably decide whether to make a recommendation. I don't know whether any announcement of a recommendation will be made before the meeting."

Company attorney Raymond S. Roberts said "We're optimistic it will be approved."

Neither Roberts nor Rozier would give any details of the proposal, and Rozier said to do so would hurt the chances of a settlement.

Local 400 of the United Glass and Ceramic workers union won recognition as bargaining agent last November but a contract was never worked out and the strike started May 27. The union charged the company with not bargaining in good faith in a complaint filed with the National Labor Relations Board. Management obtained an injunction limiting picketing to two men.

President Morris Eisenberg then hired some non-union workers from other areas in Missouri and Illinois to replace the strikers.

Chicago Race Violence Is Under Control

CHICAGO (AP) — Pointless violence that erupted fitfully and ruthlessly in a racially mixed section of Chicago's Southwest Side appeared under control Saturday.

Shouting matches between groups of unruly youths, seldom requiring police action, continued however.

Some 200 extra police from outlying areas were ordered into the Lawndale and Fillmore districts Friday to help maintain order. Extra police were withdrawn Saturday.

Twelve two-man squad cars normally patrol the two districts during the day. They had help from an additional dozen squad cars Friday.

The swift, senseless attacks by roving gangs of youthful Negroes started Thursday after the mysterious slaying of a Negro boy who was shot from ambush as he walked home from summer school. The gunman has not been found.

Seldom numbering more than six, the gangs appeared suddenly where a single white man or woman walked or was driving an automobile. Swiftly, sometimes shouting obscenities and sometimes silently, the hoodlums swarmed around their victims.

Wielding ax handles, sawed-off baseball bats, short lengths of chain and rubber hose, the marauders beat down their prey in seconds. Before fleeing, they generally rifled the victim's purse or pockets for valuables.

In three days, the victims numbered 20. Some were hospitalized. Among them were two young girls—one 12 years old, sitting on the front porch of her home. The girls suffered cuts and bruises when the gang hurled a home-made bomb at them.

One man, 68 years old, was beaten and slashed by razors when a gang of 15 Negroes attacked him.

Sixty-five Negroes of all ages were taken into custody. Police said at least 45 of them were boys and girls under 16. Some older Negroes were charged with aiding a riot, breach of peace and unlawful assembly.

There was no pattern to the attacks, police said. As quickly as a victim was attacked and robbed the gangs fled assembling again at a distance, prearranged location.

Sometimes the gangs would stone a passing bus, taxicab or private car.

One Person Killed, 4 Hurt in Accident

GIBSON, Mo. (AP) — A car skidded into a Frisco Railroad freight train at a grade crossing Saturday, killing one person and critically injuring four others.

Miss Clara Prestene Philhours, 53, Hornersville, Mo., was killed. Taken to Dunklin County Memorial Hospital were four other occupants of the car: Carl Philhours, about 45, the driver; his son, Jerry, 14; his wife, Jean, 45, and Herman Dale Shumaker, 21, all of Hornersville.

A brakeman on the train, M. L. Haney, 34, of Hayti, said the driver applied his brakes, but went into a skid on the rain-slicked blacktop road and smashed into the second boxcar behind the engine.

The accident occurred on Rt. 33 about 15 miles north of Kennett.

Purchase Painting

LONDON (AP) — The National Gallery has purchased a work by Giorgione, an Italian renaissance master whose output was small and now is extremely expensive. However, the price for "Sunset Landscape with St. George and St. Anthony" was comparatively modest. The exact price was not disclosed.

Railroad Worker Dies After Accident

SIKESTON, Mo. (AP) — Oliver Herschel Blankenship, 60, a Missouri Pacific Railroad employee who was injured Thursday when a fire extinguisher apparently exploded, died Friday night.

Blankenship suffered a fractured skull, apparently when he struck his head in falling after the barrel of the fire extinguisher hit him in the face as it was blown in the air. Witnesses said the extinguisher barrel was hurled about 100 feet.

Blankenship, a resident of Poplar Bluff, died at Missouri Delta Community Hospital. He had been an employee of the railroad 39 years and was working in the line's water division. One of his duties was recharging fire extinguishers.

At Least 3 Possibilities For War Over West Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are at least three ways in which the Soviet Union and the Western powers could go to war over Berlin. Involved are some surface issues so trivial that the risk of a great conflict seems absurd. Yet, in Moscow and Washington the real stakes are recognized as of vital importance to the future interests of both sides in the cold war.

The problem is that history has encrusted the Berlin dispute with layers of argument and complications of diplomacy that make it difficult to know at any particular moment just what the shouting is about. This worries Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who sees the danger that the shouting may lead to shooting without the people in this and other Western nations understanding just what happened.

Rusk has not made any official assertion that the dispute might explode into a devastating nuclear conflict, but he is worried about the risk that it will.

One of the big problems which American leaders face is that they do not know just how such a conflict would start and they find it difficult to know what to plan for.

Consider the three principal ways in which war might break out.

If Soviet Premier Khrushchev is prepared to press his case to that point, the most dramatic challenge the Communists can make undoubtedly would be in the air corridors to Berlin. The East German Communist government already has decreed rules governing air traffic across German Communist territory. It says the rules will be applied to the air traffic of the Western powers after a peace treaty is signed.

But the United States, Britain and France will not recognize a peace treaty between the Soviet Union and East Germany as a document giving East Germany sovereign control of its own territory. If East Germany tries to enforce its regulations by shooting down Western planes flying to Berlin, the action would provide a spectacular cause for war.

The second way in which the showdown could come is concerned with the issue of recognition of the East German regime by the Western powers. Once a peace treaty is signed with the Soviet Union it is conceivable that East Germany would demand the Western powers negotiate a formal agreement covering their use of access routes between West Germany and Berlin. Assuming that the Western powers would refuse because such an agreement would be taken to imply recognition of East German authority, the Reds might close their borders to all traffic.

Such a step would amount to a new Berlin blockade and the Western powers would be confronted with an immediate decision as to whether they would use force to reopen the supply lines. The use of force would inevitably involve an extreme danger of war.

The third possibility is that without insisting on a formal agreement the Soviets would simply withdraw their own officials from border control posts and permit the East Germans to take over. The Western powers would then have to determine whether they would permit East German border guards to process their official documents covering people and cargoes traveling between West Germany and West Berlin. If they declined, the East Germans might assert their authority by refusing to permit a U.S., British or French automobile or truck to pass. Again the question of force and the danger of war would instantly arise on the Allied side.

Western leaders are going on the assumption that Khrushchev means what he says about his future major moves with respect to Berlin and for weeks now they have been trying to figure out how to get ready for any emergency that may arise.

What Khrushchev has said so far is that by the end of this year he intends to make a separate peace treaty with East Germany which will have the effect of wiping out Allied rights with respect to West Berlin. According to various statements he has made, East Germany will then have sovereignty over the supply lines to West Berlin particularly. He has said that the Communists do not wish to interfere with traffic on the supply lines but that naturally some arrangement will have to be made with East Germany on them.

From this it appears Khrushchev does not intend that the East Germans present the Western powers with a direct provocation. Washington officials speculate it is unlikely—though still possible—that they would close the border until they won some recognition from the Western powers.

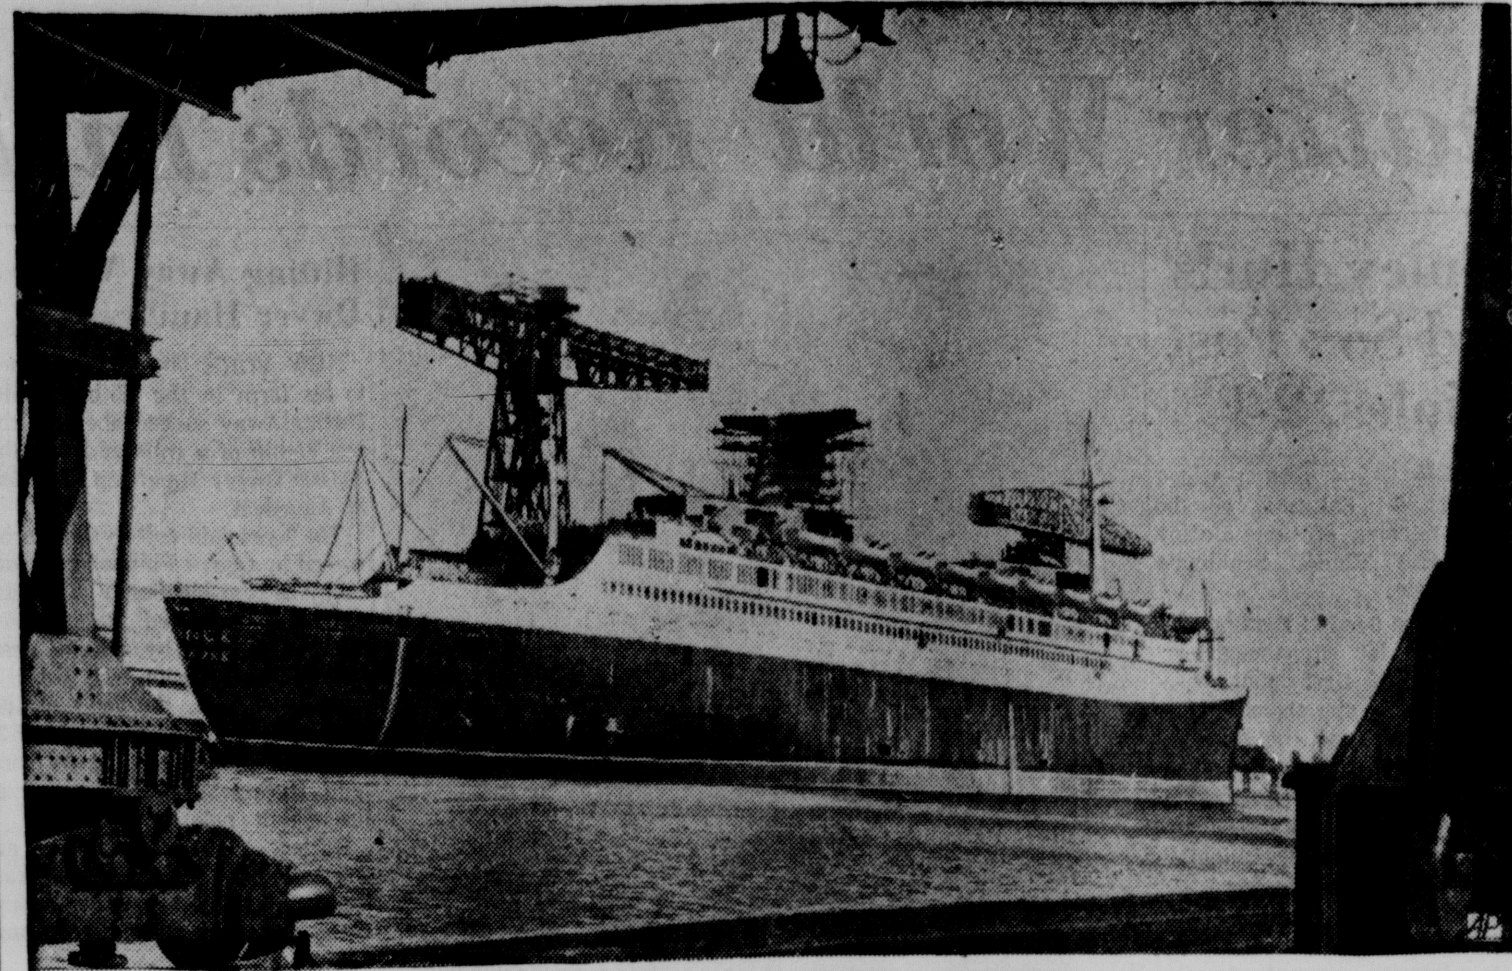

The greater probability is that they would simply take over control of the check points and try to maneuver the Western powers into a position where they would appear to the world to be making a big fuss about a minor point—for instance, objecting to an East German border policeman examining their travel documents.

However the issue is presented by the other side, the United States and its allies will have to answer such questions as: Why not accept East German control of the check points? Why not permit the East Germans to control traffic movements in the air corridors? Why not recognize the Communist regime as the government-in-fact over East German territory? Why not go along with the separate peace treaty plan proposed by Khrushchev?

The basic answer to all these questions given by the State Department, and, indeed, the answer which has provided groundwork of Allied policy for the past 15 years, is that the Western powers gained their rights to keep troops in West Berlin and to have access to the city through their victory over Nazi Germany in 1945.

They repeatedly have told the Soviet Union that nothing it can do can upset or modify these rights in any way. Measured against this fundamental position any change in the status of operation of the access routes other than by agreement between the Western powers and the Soviet Union is illegal and threatens the whole Western position, as the Allies see it.

GIANT LINER READIED — The luxury liner France nears completion at shipyards in St. Nazaire, France. The 55,000-ton vessel, one of the world's largest, can accommodate 2,000 passengers and is to make maiden voyage next year.

There is another and related policy involved on the Western side. The long-range aim, at least the declared objective of Western policy, is to bring about the reunification of Germany. The United States, Britain and France have argued many times that recognition of East Germany would tend to free the division of the country and could be construed as Western acceptance that division is permanent. Any change in the present policy probably would mean grave repercussions in the relations between West Germany and its NATO allies.

Yet the fact is that the sharp definition of Allied policy as it applied to West Berlin and to East Germany has been softened somewhat by actual practice over the years.

There is a steady flow of commerce between East and West Germany. It is regulated by agreements which are worked out by low-level officials from both sides.

Whether the precedent of East German control of civilian traffic could have a bearing on the problem of control of official U.S. British and French access to West Berlin is a question that the Western powers have so far answered negatively.

Yet it is known that in their consultations on finding some peaceful way out of the problems raised by Khrushchev they are considering all sorts of possible arrangements which might be acceptable without jeopardizing the basic, war-won rights.

Whether any kind of compromise is possible will depend partly on what they decide and partly on what Khrushchev really wants. Western leaders generally agree that his ultimate aim is to force the United States, Britain and France to withdraw their troops as a first step toward domination of the city by Communist East Germany. In this, it is said here, his real purpose is to end the independence of West Berlin, to subject its 2.2 million inhabitants to Red rule, and to consolidate Communist control throughout Eastern Europe.

Thus the issues involved in the dispute are far greater than the immediate problems of maintaining access to the city. That is why Khrushchev sees the presence of Western troops in Berlin as a thorn in the side of the Communist bloc; it is also why the Western powers believe they must protect their basic rights in the city and on its supply line even in the face of a grave danger of war.

US Athletes Shatter World Records In Russian Meet

American Men Lead By 10 Points, Women Trail By 10

MOSCOW (AP)—The American men's and women's 400-meter relay teams set world records and Wilma Rudolph tied her own 100-meter mark Saturday as the United States men and Russian women took 10-point leads at the end of the first day of the two-day track meet.

The U. S. men won 7 of 11 events for a 64-54 edge. Russian women won 3 of 5 for a 31-21 margin.

Hayes Jones, Frank Budd, Charles Fraizer and Paul Drayton shot to a fantastic record of 39.1 seconds in the men's 400, leading the crowd of 60,000 in Lenin Stadium.

Miss Rudolph, the triple gold medal winner in the 1960 Olympic Games, matched her own record of 11.3 seconds for the 100. Then she anchored the 400-meter relay team to a new mark of 44.3 seconds.

The Russians had expected to win the women's relay with no trouble. But grabbing the baton about four yards back, Wilma sprinted to the front and won going away. The old record was 44.4.

Except for the women's relay, there were no surprises. The U.S. men scored 1-2 sweeps in the 100 meters, 400 meters, 800 meters, pole vault and shot put. The only American victory that was not a 1-2 sweep was in the 100-meter hurdles by Hayes Jones of Pontiac, Mich., in 13.8 seconds. Anatoli Mikhailov sneaked in ahead of Fran Washington of North Sacramento, Calif., to take second.

The Russians finished 1-2 in the hammer throw, hop, step and jump, 20-kilometer walk and 10,000-meter run.

Tamara Press set a new world record in the women's discus with a throw of 188 feet 4 inches as Russia won three of the five women's events.

Among the Sunday features will be the high jump in which John Thomas of the United States, who may be sub-par due to a tooth extraction, will attempt to get even for his defeats last winter by Valery Brumel, of Russia. Also on the program is the 1,500-meter run in which Dyrrol Burleson, the American champion, is a doubtful starter because of a stomach ailment.

Little LEAGUERS

The rain finally let up enough to get in some Little League baseball. After being rained out two straight nights, play got underway Friday with Optimist whipping Moose, 6-2, and Kiwanis scoring a 10-2 victory over Adco at Little League stadium.

Johnny McKinzie, who has two no-hitters to his credit this season, spun a nifty three-hitter for the Optimist this time. His catcher, Chuck Caravie, banged out a triple. Jim Reiger went the distance for Moose and took the loss, although he gave up only four hits.

Kiwanis collected only two hits off Adco's Bobby Pierce, but took advantage of 12 walks to win going away. Winning pitcher Jack Cramer gave up three hits — one a triple to Pierce — but had good control.

In A team play, Adco defeated Moose, 7-5, at Housel Park. Bell was the winning pitcher and Jennings took the loss.

Adco shut out Moose, 5-0, in B team play. Schuster was the winning pitcher and Raines the loser.

In C team play, Adco walloped Moose, 24-5. Goosen got the win and Snyder took the loss.

Long Beach Pilot Wins Powder Puff Derby

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Mrs. Frances S. Bera, 36, a pretty little woman who looks as if she would have trouble seeing out of an airplane, Saturday was named winner of the Powder Puff Derby.

It was the sixth win for the Long Beach, Calif., resident in the 15-year history of the transcontinental air race for women. However, this was the first time she has won flying alone.

Mrs. Bera finished the San Diego-to-Atlantic City trek Friday.

The winner is not determined by who finishes the race first, but by the amount of flying time required considering the capability of the aircraft.

Aileen Saunders, El Cajon, Calif., and June Douglas, West Palm Beach, Fla., placed second. Eleventh place among the top 15 finalists went to Mrs. Mary Ann Noah, Mission, Kan., and Mrs. Joan Manda, Pleasant Hill, Mo.

Conley Hurls Red Sox Past Orioles, 2-1

BOSTON (AP)—Boston edged Baltimore 2-1 Saturday on the four-hit pitching of Gene Conley and rookie Chuck Schilling's clutch single.

Conley, the 6-foot-8 right-hander who never let up though he trailed from the first inning, bested Dick Hall on the strength of a two-run uprising in the seventh.

Vic Wertz tied the score with a pinchhit sacrifice fly after Pete Runnels and Frank Malzone singled. Conley set up the winning run by dropping a single down the right field line.

With Malzone on third, Schilling drove a liner just over the frantic clutch of Jerry Adair into right.

Conley was working on a two-hitter until Brooks Robinson and Russ Snyder hit consecutive singles with two down in the eighth. Gene's walk to Robinson as the first batter in the game, and an infield out produced a Baltimore run when Jackie Brandt singled.

Emergency Performer Saves Tigers

DETROIT (AP)—Larry Osborne, pressed into service as an emergency performer, belted a towering eighth-inning home run and lifted the Detroit Tigers to a 2-1 victory over the Minnesota Twins Saturday.

Osborne's first homer landed in the upper center field bleachers 400 feet from home plate. It enabled Jim Bunning to best Camilo Pascual in a tight pitchers' duel. The hefty first baseman was in Detroit's lineup only because of slugging Norm Cash's foot infection.

Bunning recorded his 10th victory against six losses. He yielded only four hits and the only damaging one was Earl Battey's ninth home run in the seventh.

Battey's homer tied the score after the Tigers had broken up a scoreless struggle in the fifth.

Dick Sikes Wins U.S. Public Links Golf Title

DETROIT (AP)—Dick Sikes captured the U. S. Public Links Golf Championship Saturday with a decisive 4 and 3 triumph over fellow collegian John Molenda of Detroit.

Sikes, becoming only the third player ever to win medalist honors and go on to the championship in this event's 36-year history, rallied from a three-hole deficit, won three of the last four holes in the morning and broke for lunch all even with the 190-pound Detroit Tech junior.

The 21-year-old kid from Springfield, Ark., who toted his own bag throughout the weeklong tournament, went three up on the front side in the afternoon, trimming two strokes off par at Rackham golf course.

Sikes won the 10th when Molenda hit into the rough, lost 11 when he hit over the green and won the 13th, a par three hole, with a par. The two competitors, both appearing in the Public Links event for the first time, halved the next two holes and it was all over.

Sikes won medalist honors in the 36-hole qualifying Monday and Tuesday with a five-under-par score of 135. He was four under par in the eight match play round.

HOAK DOWN — Pittsburgh first baseman Don Hoak lies on the ground still clutching the ball as teammate Dick Groat has words with Umpire Frank Dascoli moments after Jim Marshall of the San Francisco Giants crashed headon with Hoak at third in a game at San Francisco. Hoak, although knocked out momentarily, held onto the ball for an unassisted force out. The collision occurred when Giant Harvey Kuenn drilled a grounder to Hoak as Marshall ran in from second base. The Giants won 2-1. (AP Wirephoto)

Late Surge Pays Off

Arnold Palmer Wins British Open Title

BIRKDALE, England (AP)—Arnold Palmer won the British Open golf championship by a single stroke Saturday with one of his patented late surges and became the first American to win the coveted title since Ben Hogan did it in 1953.

The Latrobe, Pa., professional started the rain-splattered day one blow off the pace. He blazed over the soggy front nine of the Birkdale course, where par is 36-36—72, in 32. That carried him to a third-round 69 which put him out in front. A comfortable par 72 on the fourth round brought him the title.

His card for the four rounds read 70-73-69-72—284. That is four under par, astounding under the miserable weather conditions that prevailed.

Friday's play had to be postponed because of the rains.

Monty Basgall In Kansas Baseball Hall Of Fame

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Election of Monty Basgall, 2400 West Second Street, Sedalia, to the Kansas Baseball Hall of Fame was reported Saturday. Monty formerly played second base for the Pittsburgh Pirates and is a native Kansan.

Ed Chaney, president of the Oldtime Ball Players' Assn., announced the selection by the Kansas organization.

Basgall was out of town Saturday night and could not be reached for comment. However, Mrs. Basgall said, "He'll be very happy to find out." She said Monty knew he was a candidate for the honor, but as far as she knew, he didn't know yet that he had been selected.

Basgall, born at Pfeifer, Kan., in 1922, was a star at Bison high school. Playing with the Enid, Okla., Champions, winners of the 1941 National Non-Pro Tournament at Wichita, he was signed out of that tourney by the Brooklyn Dodgers and later sold to the Pirates.

He started his pro baseball at Valdosta, Ga., in Class D ball in 1942; was in armed service 1942-45, and went to Fort Worth in the Texas League when discharged. He played at Fort Worth through 1947, then joined the Pirates as second baseman in the 1948 and 1949 season.

Hitting Away Wins Dwyer Handicap

NEW YORK (AP)—Running back to his form in the Withers Mile, Hitting Away surged ahead in the last eighth of a mile and won the $83,600 Dwyer Handicap Saturday at Aqueduct.

The 3-year-old colt by Ambiorix, owned by Ogden Phipps and trained by 35-year-old Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, outlasted Baldpate, a 28-1 shot, to win by a nose. Beau Prince, the favorite, was third.

Baldpate took the lead at the start of the 1 1/4-mile test for 3-year-olds and stayed out in front until Hitting Away took over at the eighth pole.

Hitting Away, running as an entry with Royal Record, was timed in 2:03 4-5 over a sloppy track and paid $8.70, $5.30, and $3.20.

Giants Score 8-3 Victory Over Pirates

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Jimmie Davenport and Jose Pagan collected three hits each Saturday, helping Mike McCormick and the San Francisco Giants to an 8-3 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Dick Stuart, who slammed three of the Pirates' eight hits, belted his 11th homer for the season in the fourth inning.

The Bucs' Don Hoak also hit a bases-empty homer, his sixth. McCormick struck out seven while posting his eighth victory against nine losses. He walked only one, Harvey Haddix (6-4) took the defeat.

The Giants blasted the Pirates with 4-run rallies in the fifth and Pagan contributed big hits in both uprisings.

Phillies Whip Dodgers, 7-2, Behind Short

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Left-hander Chris Short pitched a six-hitter and hit a tie-breaking single in the seventh inning Saturday as Philadelphia knocked off the Los Angeles Dodgers, 7-2.

Short became the first Philadelphia pitcher to go the distance since June 8 and the first visiting left-hander to pitch a complete game at the Coliseum since 1950.

Left-hander Sandy Koufax went 7 1/3 innings for the Dodgers, giving up eight hits and five runs.

The Phillies, trailing 2-1 after six innings, took a 3-2 lead in the seventh on a double by Ruben Amaro and singles by Charlie Smith and Short.

Philadelphia added three runs in the eighth. Lee Walls drove in one of them with a triple and Charlie Smith followed with his sixth homer of the season.

Amaro led off the ninth with a double, took third on a sacrifice and scored on a squeeze bunt by Bobby Malkmus.

The Dodgers got both their runs with two out in the first. Tom Davis drove in one with a single and Frank Howard brought in the other with a double. After that, the Dodgers got only one runner as far as second base.

Krausse's Fifth Loss

Senators Rap Athletics 7-1

WASHINGTON (AP)—Low Krausse, Kansas City's $125,000 bonus pitcher, went down to his fifth straight defeat Saturday as the Washington Senators scored a 7-1 victory behind Dick Donovan.

Krausse, 18-year-old right-hander, went three full innings and was roughed up for three runs and five hits. Art Ditmar, Bob Shaw and Norm Bass followed him to the mound.

Donovan blanked the A's on one hit for the last six innings and retired 20 of the last 21 batters he faced. He gave up six hits in registering his fifth victory against eight defeats.

The A's took a 1-0 lead in the second inning but the Senators tied it in their half of the inning on a walk and went ahead in the third.

Chuck McKinley, Ralston Power US Into Finals

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Chuck McKinley, 20, and Dennis Ralston, 19, powered their way to a 6-1, 6-2, 7-5 conquest of Ecuador's Miguel Olvera and Eduardo Zuleta in the doubles Saturday to catapult the United States into the American zone final of the Davis Cup competition.

The one-sided victory enabled the U. S. to take a 3-0 lead in the best-of-5 series and made Sunday's two singles contests just a formality.

McKinley, the muscular St. Louisan who attended Trinity College in Texas, and Ralston, of Bakersfield, Calif., needed only 56 minutes to dispose of the Ecuadorians.

McKinley and Bernard (Tut) Barten accounted for two victories in the singles Friday.

Allan Fox, NCAA tennis champ from UCLA, will replace Barten against Olvera Sunday with McKinley playing Zuleta.

The U.S. now must wait for two more matches before knowing its next opponent. Mexico plays Canada, with the winner to play Morocco. The U.S. takes on the winner of that match, probably at Cleveland.

Ty Cobb Reported In Poor Condition

ATLANTA (AP)—Ty Cobb, former baseball star who has been hospitalized several times in recent years, was reported in poor condition Saturday in Emory University Hospital.

The Georgia Peach, who thrilled baseball fans with his magic bat and base running for nearly a quarter of a century, entered the hospital again about a month ago. He is suffering from diabetes and other ailments.

The 74-year-old baseball wonder had been in fair condition until Saturday. He had an uncomfortable night and a spokesman said he is unconscious at times.

Cobb, a native of Royston, Ga., has divided his time in recent years between Georgia and California.

CardsClobber Braves, 12-4

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Curt Flood hit a bases-loaded pinch double to touch off an eight-run eighth-inning rally that gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 12-4 victory over the Milwaukee Braves Saturday night.

The inning, the Redbirds' biggest of the season, started against Don McMahon and continued against Johnny Antonelli.

Joe Cunningham started it with a one-out single and Carl Sawatski and Alex Grammas walked to load the bases. Flood's blow brought in two runs and sent McMahon, now 1-4, to the showers.

Antonelli was touched by Red Schoendienst's one-run single and Don Taussig's two-run double. He then walked Bill White and Ken Boyer unloaded his 13th home run for the Cards' final three runs.

Taussig drove in four runs with a triple and his double as the Cards fought back from a three-run deficit to take their second straight home game from the Braves.

Su Mac Lad Wins In International Trot

WESTBURY, N. Y. (AP)—Su Mac Lad, one of America's greatest trotters, held on Saturday night for a nose victory over French-owned Kracovic in the $50,000 International Trot at Roosevelt Raceway. Tie Silk, representing Canada, was third in the six-horse field.

The 7-year-old gelding, owned by I. W. Berkemeyer of New Milford, N. J., and driven by Stanley Dancer, had to go all out after setting most of the pace to break the monopoly held on this harness racing classic by foreign-owned trotters.

It was the first American victory in the three years the international has been held.

Racing over a track made sloppy by an all-day rain, Su Mac Lad covered the 1 1/4 miles in the surprisingly good time of 2:34.25 as compared to the track and world mark of 2:33.

Bartzen, ranked second to Barry MacKay by the United States Lawn Tennis Association, was seeded No. 1 for the tournament which runs through Sunday. MacKay is not competing.

There will be 64 men including eight foreign seeds battling for the singles title and 32 women, headed by top-seeded Kren Hantze of Chula Vista, Calif., will be competing for the women's singles championship.

British Are Warned To Tighten Belts

LONDON (AP)—The Conservative government warned the British people Saturday it is going to have to impose a severe austerity program to meet the nation's growing economic crisis.

At the same time, the opposition Labor party blamed Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Conservatives for the crisis, which it called a mess. Labor party leader Hugh Gaitskell said:

"Make no mistake, the responsibility for this mess cannot be shuffled off on to the other countries and other governments. The blame lies here, where conditions have been favorable."

The warning of belt-tightening came from the chancellor of the exchequer, Selwyn Lloyd, in a speech at a Tory rally at Hawarden, Wales.

"I am determined that some of the present trends in our economy should be changed," he said. "I shall recommend such action as I think necessary to secure this, however unpopular and unexpected."

"I am not afraid to ask the British people to bear the necessary burdens or accept the necessary disciplines designed to secure not just survival but also the maintenance of our position as an up-to-date, progressive, dynamic influence in the world."

Owing largely to Britain's failure to export as much as it imports, the pound sterling has been under great pressure on international monetary exchanges in recent weeks.

British officials pegs the pound at a $2.78 to $2.82 range. The government has been forced to buy pound extensively on the money exchanges in order to keep the pound at this level. This has resulted in a severe drain on the government's gold and hard currency reserves.

Lloyd previously had warned that Britain would be forced to cut down on outlays for foreign aid and the upkeep of troops stationed abroad—in West Germany and elsewhere.

Lloyd did not specifically mention in his speech what measures the government had in mind but said he would outline them to the House of Commons July 25. Business circles are expecting a hike in the bank rate. Lloyd also has the power to curb purchasing by applying a 10 per cent increase in taxes on sales of tobacco, liquor and luxury goods as an anti-inflationary measure.

US Will Unfold Kennedy's Latin Aid Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is to unfold at an inter-American conference next month the details of President Kennedy's Alliance for Progress program to aid Latin America. But the delegates will not be told how much money this country is prepared to spend.

U.S. officials made this clear Saturday, saying the magnitude of Washington's aid would depend almost wholly on the amount of self-help put into the program by the Latin-American countries themselves.

They said the program will make forthright pledges to do everything possible to aid the hemisphere nations, both in immediate and in long-range social and economic projects.

But even countries with extremely limited resources, they say, can help themselves in such areas as land reform, improved methods of taxation, sound fiscal policies, and clearing away obstacles to investment by their own citizens and by foreigners.

General outlines of the program were given last week to diplomats of 18 Latin-American republics—all of them except Cuba and the Dominican Republic—summoned to the State Department for a closed-door briefing.

Chiefs-Caddillac Game Rained Out

The Sedalia Ban Johnson Chiefs and the Boonville Cadillacs engaged in a struggle for second place in the Central Missouri Ban Johnson Division Saturday night at Boonville. And today they are still tied for second place, each with 5-4 records.

The game was rained out after three innings with the score tied at 2-2.

The Chiefs will play Sweet Springs at Liberty Park tonight at 8 o'clock. The locals have defeated the last place Sweet Springs club twice, once by a thin margin of 5-4 against the pitching of Larry Pummill, expected to pitch in the game tonight. Zane Turner is expected to get the Sedalia mound assignment.

The Chiefs-Cadillacs meeting gave promise of a real struggle before the rain came. Pitchers H. D. White of Sedalia and Tebbe of Boonville were both sailing along nicely with two-hitters. They each also had fanned three batters.

The Chiefs took a short-lived 2-0 lead in the second. A walk, a single by Jerry Barr, and a wild pitch put runners on second and third. Both scored on Jim Schnakenberg's single.

The Caddys tied it in the second. A walk, a hit by Don Thomas, and Custer's single scored one run, and Thomas scored on a sacrifice fly.

JFK Reportedly Has Decided To Activate Reserve

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Sun-Times said Saturday in its Sunday editions that President Kennedy has reached a firm decision to mobilize some elements of the armed reserves to meet the Soviet threat to West Berlin.

The story, written by Thomas B. Ross of the Sun-Times Washington bureau, said that members of Congress have been advised of the decision.

"Final determination of how many men will be mobilized, what reserves and National Guard elements will be involved, and when they will be ordered to active duty has been deferred until Mr. Kennedy receives a detailed Pentagon review this week," Ross said.

The President has authority to call up as many as one million men without any action by Congress.

In Washington, a Pentagon spokesman replied "no comment" when asked about the Sun-Times story. Members of Congress available at the capital professed no knowledge of any such decision by the President.

The Defense Department has been working since early last week on a review of readiness of conventional forces which might be needed to implement any moves decided upon by Kennedy.

Kennedy ordered the review last weekend at a meeting with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, the President's military adviser. The review presumably is to provide Kennedy with information on which he can base his decision on the scope of any new action needed.

NAACP Vows

All-Out Bid To Hit Goal

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People Saturday rededicated its total resources to an all-out drive to attain its goal—"an America of freedom, equality, justice and security for all its citizens."

In support of the drive delegates at the final working session of the organization's 52nd annual convention resolved to press sit-ins, wage-ins, ride-ins, squat-ins and "Freedom Rides."

The convention pledged itself to employ "the tested instrument of democratic progress and reform, namely assembly, petition, demonstration, the ballot, courts of law, purchasing power and mobilized public opinion." It called for "freedom by 1963 not only through demonstrations but through living freedom, in all possible avenues of American life."

Delegates approved a resolution asserting the NAACP is convinced its objectives are attainable within the framework of the American constitutional system. It said that methods, tactics and strategy of the NAACP over the first half-century "have sustained history's most effective and productive attack against entrenched racism."

Before the gavel banged ending the week-long sessions, the convention dealt with almost every phase of American life and its effect on the Negro.

On civil rights the convention called upon Congress and President Kennedy for legislation 1. imposing maximum punishment for lynching; 2. giving the attorney general power to seek injunctions and other civil remedies for those denied rights under the 14th Amendment to the Constitution; 4. antisegregation amendments in all laws providing federal aid for schools, housing, hospitals, recreation, and the aged; 5. outlawing poll taxes, and 6. elimination of the Senate filibuster.

In the field of housing, the convention urged President Kennedy to "implement the Democratic platform and to fulfill his campaign promises by issuing an executive order prohibiting racial segregation and discrimination in federally assisted housing and to

Says Most Major Areas Are Out Of Recession

DENVER (AP)—Most major areas of economic activity have pulled out of the 1960 recession, William McChesney Martin Jr., Federal Reserve System chairman, said Saturday.

In just three months, he told a joint directors meeting of the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City and its Denver branch, industrial production has recovered all of the decline that occurred since July 1960.

The gross national product, he added, reached a new record high in the second quarter of this year. Furthermore, personal incomes have expanded to a level well above last autumn's peak and the total number of persons with jobs is the highest in our history, Martin said.

The number of unemployed workers remains high, he said, and a substantial amount of existing plant capacity lies idle.

set up adequate machinery to enforce such an order."

Delegates reaffirmed the NAACP position that Negro children "have an immediate right to be educated on a desegregated basis, and that this right should not be delayed. The education resolution opposed all school desegregation plans which subscribe to "gradualism."

Bringing these resources into full utilization presents a challenge to management, to labor and to government, he said.

Martin pulled for lower prices, saying that all benefits of improved technology ought not to go to management, stock holders and labor.

Bare Photos Haunt Wife

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — She's a jazz singer. Mother of two. Her husband is a top band leader. Her mother is vice principal of a junior high school.

And bare-bodied pictures of her were featured in a girlie magazine.

So what happened?

"I was ready to kill myself—a candidate for the gas oven," says Ann Richards, 25, wife of Stan Kenton.

Kenton's reaction?

"I guess he saw how upset I was, so he never told me whether it bothered him. But he's been ribbed about it. And you know how that goes over."

"I'm not worried about him, though. It's my mother and mother-in-law. Not a peep out of them yet."

Miss Richards has a figure of notably curvaceous proportions. She posed in a filmy something-or-other that had all the screening characteristics of a picture show.

Why then, the surprise? She knew she wasn't posing for Atlantic Monthly.

"I specified that there would be nothing bare. The photographer was way across the room. In the magazine it came out a close-up—all me. One shot in a negligee showed all. The whole thing made me look more like a strip-teaser than a singer."

"I accepted the offer because it's a recognized jazz magazine. I thought it would help my career."

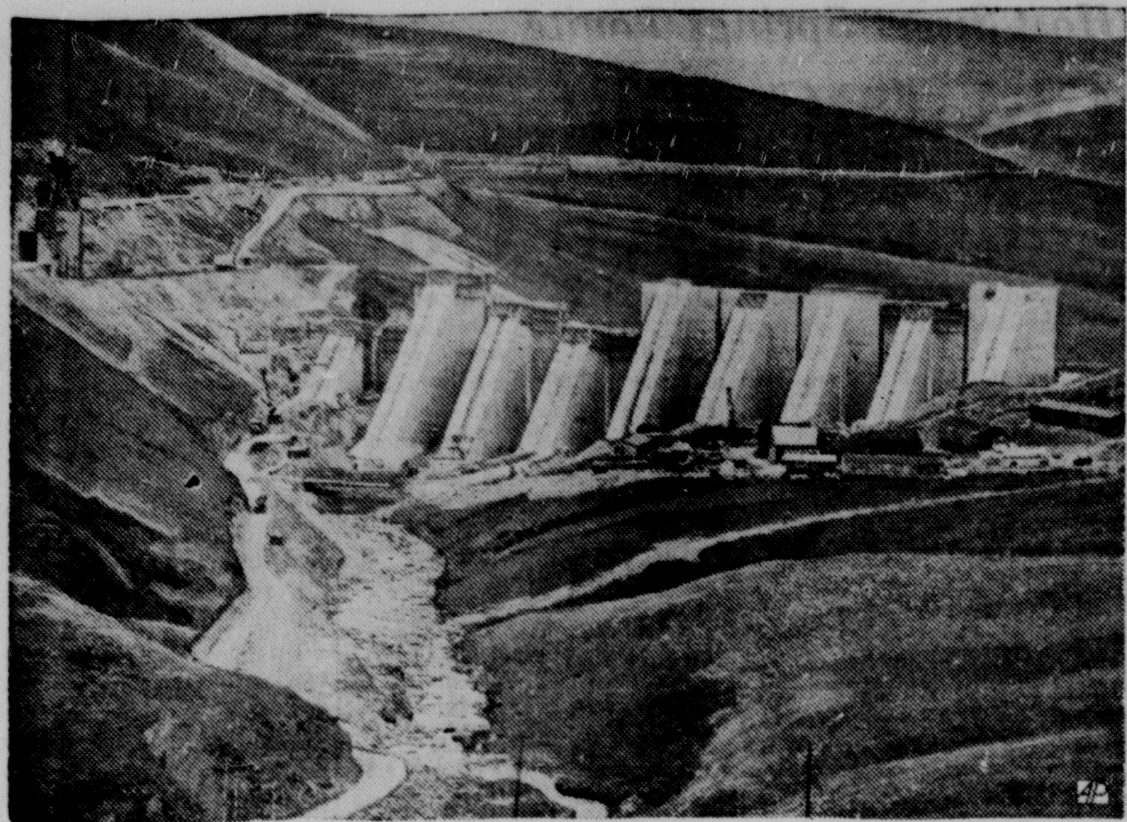

"Now who's going to listen to my voice?"

As she talked, she pointed to the pictures.

"Look at those lines in my neck. Aren't they horrible? What will people think?"

She was assured that she probably is the only observer to scrutinize the neck.

Miss Richards said she complained to the publisher, and he told her she should be happy, it would help sell her record albums. Sure enough. She has a re-

Under Investigation

DURANGO, Colo. (AP)—The death of a former resident of Springfield, Mo., John Culbertson, 46, is under investigation at Durango.

The man died in a hospital there Monday. A policeman said he discovered Culbertson asleep behind a business building early Sunday and allowed him to sleep at the jail. Disappointments Give Patty Strength

PATTY DUKE: "The schedule leaves a little time for roller skating in Central Park."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Patty Duke was only 13 when a star was hung on her dressing room door for her moving portrayal of young Helen Keller in the Broadway hit, "The Miracle Worker." A native of New York City, Patty reached Broadway after several illustrious years in television and movies. A veteran trouper at 14, Patty tells what it's like to be Broadway's youngest star and still have to cope with homework and the supper dishes.

By PATTY DUKE
Written for
The Associated Press

Do I really like acting?
This is a question I am often asked.

I love it!
Even after playing young Helen Keller about 600 times in the Broadway play, "The Miracle Worker," then doing it again for the movie, I love acting more than ever. Sure there are times, once in a great while, when I think it might be nice not to have to go to the theater or show up on the set—but then some days I feel that way about school and other things too.

I guess the sooner in life you learn not to run away from the things you are expected to do, no matter what they are, the better off you'll be.

Acting to me is a combination of many things. It's mostly work, of course, but very pleasant work. It's laughs, too, and surprises, many very exciting surprises. But most important, which a lot of people don't seem to realize, it's disappointments, and in show business they come in the large economy size. You have to learn how to take it.

When I first started acting, it was one disappointment after another. No one would hire me because of my poor speech. John Ross, my manager and coach, continually worked with me on it, and then, one day it happened. I got a small part—it lasted about a minute—in the TV production of "The Prince and the Pauper" playing a little English girl (of all things) in a scene with the boy king.

It was then I felt that I might really belong some day. But the bigger you get the bigger the disappointments that make you strong enough to go on, because they make you enjoy whatever bit of success you may have.

Then there are the surprises. One night there was a knock at my dressing room door. "Someone to see you, Patty." I opened the door. Someone came in, sat down and talked—all about my doll collection and everything.

PATTY DUKE: "Do I really like acting? I love it!"

That someone turned out to be Mr. Cary Grant, and he was even nicer in person than the parts he plays in the movies.

Another night it was someone I had done a television show with and happened to like very much. We were so excited to see each other again that we both gave out with blood curdling Indian war whoops and yells. It was nutty, I guess, but I was so happy to see him. I just broke up. By the way, I forgot to tell you, it was Tab Hunter!

I guess my home life is about the same as any boy or girl's. I have certain chores to do. There are always empty bottles to take back to the store, and the garbage to take out, and then there are the dishes, which I don't really mind, but sometimes I wish we used paper plates.

My school would be considered different, I guess. Most people think of school as a large building surrounded by grass and maybe with a large flagpole out front. My school is in a building about the size of a two family house. There's a large black plaque out front that says "Quintano's School for Young Professionals." Inside are two large rooms in which classes are held.

I go to school from 10 o'clock in the morning until one in the afternoon. The subjects are the same as in most public schools. The schedule leaves a little time for ice skating in Rockefeller Plaza in winter and roller skating in Central Park the rest of the year. We are off school from early June until September, when I spend the time between shows at the nearby beaches and pools.

I guess that's why I like being an actress. You never just hang around. There's always something to do.

Giving Food Away Proves Big Problem

WASHINGTON (AP)—At a recent food for peace conference here a humanitarian asked: Why doesn't the United States give its food surpluses to the world's needy instead of holding them in costly storage?

The questioner, active in humanitarian work at home and abroad, explained he is continually asked this and is unable to give a very good answer.

The experts went into some detail to explain. And the big reason they gave is that it is just very difficult to give away food to many countries.

Here's why: First, it is necessary to get the consent of governments of possible recipient countries. The United States simply could not show up with a boatload of food without first getting approval.

In considering whether to accept U.S. food, these governments themselves have political, economic and social problems to consider. Most of these countries have their own farmers and are trying to develop their own agriculture. There is need to keep in-flowing free food from breaking prices and destroying markets of the local farmers and undoing efforts to establish local agriculture.

Then, our donated foods could pose a problem with other agricultural surplus producing countries more dependent than the United States on finding cash markets abroad.

There have been many complaints that American donations of foods have kept other countries from needed markets.

There are other problems, too.

American officials often find leaders of the needy countries somewhat reluctant to take proffered food lest it involve possible commitments they are not ready to make. Some are fearful that taking American surpluses might lead their people to expect to depend upon such supplies indefinitely without exerting efforts to produce more of their own.

Besides, many of the backward areas are without accessible seaports or facilities for unloading boats. Many are without transportation facilities for moving the food inland, where, in many cases, the need is greatest. Many are without a distribution system that would keep the donated food from being mixed with commercial supplies, where it might undermine prices and production.

Some politicians and farm leaders see a danger in this country getting deeply involved in a give-away food program. They say there is a possibility American agriculture might come to depend upon such outlets and not adjust its production to a commercial market and a more modest foreign relief program.

AIR EXPRESS—Sliding on a thin film of air, vehicles like this "Levacar of the Future" may provide fast intercity and interstate travel in coming decades. The Levacars would use "levapads" instead of wheels, supported on a cushion of air only a fraction of an inch above the rails, and move at speeds of 200 to 500 miles an hour. In the 40-passenger model in drawing above, power for both lift and propulsion would be obtained from two turbojet engines. The design is the result of studies by Ford Motor Co. engineers, who have already built and tested a one-passenger model.

PAINT CHIP PROBLEM PERPLEXES POTATO CHIP PURVEYOR

Ray Coufal, a friendly, personable man, who spends his business hours selling for Dixie Kitchen, is a new friend of ours. Ray spends most of his waking moments in the sale of Kitty Clover Potato Chips. This tasty, delicious product is meeting with ever increasing acceptance. Ray, who covers a rather extensive territory in nearby counties, has shown a steady and very gratifying sales growth. As one who deals in a quality product, he is one of the first to recognize true worth.

It is not his acceptance of Du Pont Paints that created our mutual friendship, but rather his recognition of top quality. Frankly, I was flattered when I first met him and he told me that he had read every one of our weekly Du Pont advertisements. He had driven around town checking the Du Pont painted houses we had mentioned and he liked what he saw. He quickly made the Du Pont decision.

But the thing that really cemented our camaraderie was his belief that the "greatest economy is an investment in quality." I am undeniably drawn to people who are quality conscious. And when they concede they have friends or relatives who try to dissuade them with talks of "bargains", the affinity grows greater.

Ray Coufal's home at 1107 West Third Street is one of Sedalia's older homes. Time and circumstance have taken their toll. Owner after owner, some with affection, some with neglect, have left their indelible marks. Where one former owner scrimped on the painting of the house; another lavished it with over generous quantities of pigment. In fact, when I visited Ray this week it looked as though the house might topple from sheer weight of paint still adorning it.

But all that will soon be a thing of the past. Ray Coufal is on vacation. And, as many another young Sedalian with leisure time, he is devoting his holiday to improvement of his property. He's doing it the hard way (there is no short cut to success) by doing it the proper way.

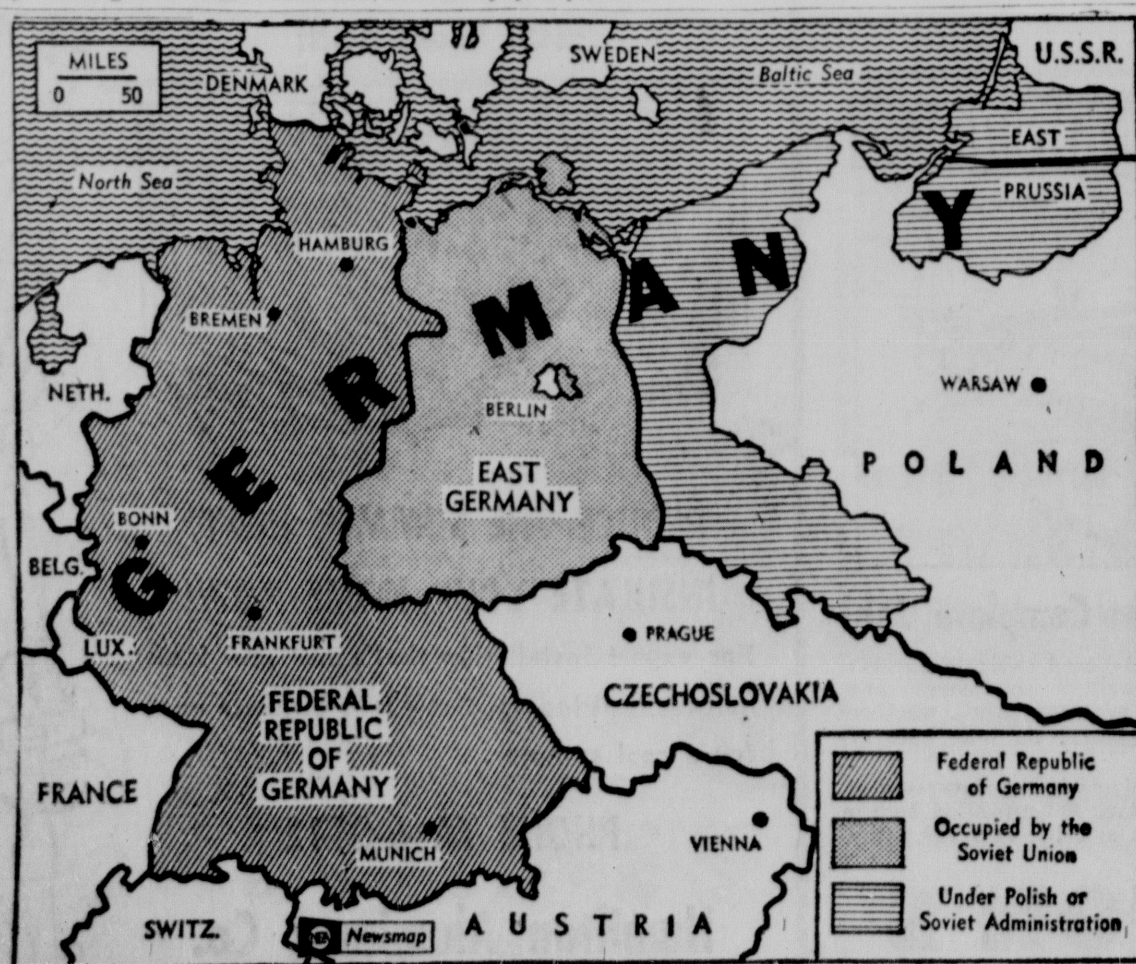

Ray Coufal is doing his best to remove every last vestige of paint from his home. He is using a sander and a blow torch. Once the old layers of paint are removed, he plans to give it a prime coat of Du Pont Blister-Resistant Primer, topped by a coat of Du Pont Lucite House Paint. This wonderful two coat system is like taking out a valuable insurance policy against paint failure.

But this astute, young man is not content to stop here. He bought some 1/2 x 6 "A" Cedar siding from us to reside an addition to his home and with this he plans to follow Du Pont's suggestion of two coats of Blister-Resistant Primer and two coats of LUCITE House Paint. This step will guarantee him a perfect, trouble-free paint job.

We are happy to count Ray Coufal as a new Du Pont customer. He is the type of man who is going places. Why don't you go places and Go First Class with Du Pont Paint?

County Corn Support Set By Chairman

Prices for the 1961 corn crop will be supported at a minimum of $1.22 per bushel in Pettis County, C. A. Staples, chairman of the Pettis County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, has announced. This compares with a final rate of $1.08 per bushel in effect for 1960-crop corn.

Staples explained that the minimum rates will not be reduced, but may be increased if the final 1961-crop corn support price determined on the basis of data on Oct. 1 is higher than the minimum national support of $1.20 per bushel announced in March.

In announcing the county support rate for 1961-crop corn, Staples stressed the importance of a full understanding by growers of how this year's corn price-support program is affected by the 1961 feed grain program.

"Corn producers who participate in the 1961 feed grain program will be eligible for price support on their 1961 production," he declared, "but there will be a limitation of the amount of corn from eligible farms that can be put under support."

"The amount of eligible corn from such a 'cooperating' farm in effect will be the 'normal' production from the farm's 1961 corn acreage. Should the actual corn crop exceed the 'normal' yield determined for the farm, a grower might very well find that he could put only a part of his 1961 corn crop under the support program."

"Producers of corn who do not participate in the 1961 feed grain program of course will not be eligible for support on their 1961 corn production."

"Eligible" corn, according to the chairman, must also have been produced in 1961, must grade No. 3 or better or No. 4 because of test weight only, must meet certain moisture requirements, and must be in adequate storage. The schedule of premiums and discounts is unchanged from the 1960 program.

As in the past, the price-support program for 1961-crop corn will be carried out through farm and warehouse-stored loans and purchase agreements. These will be available from harvest time through May 31, 1962. Loans will mature on July 31, 1962.

Ann Landers Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I've read every imaginable kind of problem in your column, but not this. We are very friendly with a certain couple, and because of the nature of our businesses, we eat out together at least once a week. They always bring their teenager along — so there are three of them and two of us.

This son of theirs is sort of a smart-aleck punk, which naturally, they don't see. He only goes for steak — and of course only if it's most expensive cut will do. They laughingly say "Orville has high-class taste" and then let it go at that. When he orders strawberries out of season (a la carte) I'd like to wring his high grade neck.

We have always split the check in half, but frankly I am getting pretty tired of paying for 50% of this 14-year-old gourmet's fancy taste. Is there a way out?
CANT AFFORD IT.

Dear Can't: Yes. The next time you dine together do this: Both you and your wife order inordinately expensive dinners. Start with avocado and crabmeat. Go hog wild. Rock Cornish hen is nice. Try the artichoke salad. Baked Alaska for dessert is lovely. Then say, "Look it's not fair for you to pay for half of this. From now on we're going to have separate checks."

Dear Ann Landers: Several weeks ago I met a Marine on a double-date. He was with another girl and I was with another fellow. He is 19 years old and very smooth.

The Marine has telephoned me four times (long distance) to ask for a date since he is stationed in a nearby city. He thinks he'll be shipping out in a few weeks and he is eager to get to know me better. My mother says I can't go out with a fellow I know nothing about, but she is willing to have him over to dinner and have us spend the first evening at home.

I am 18 and have dated several fellows. I think my mother is being unfair. A girl of 18 should be able to take care of herself on a first date, without supervision. The fellow will not agree to an evening at home. What is your opinion? — NOT SURE.

Dear Not Sure: If the fellow was on the square, he would be happy to accept the dinner invitation and spend the evening at your home.

The fact that he is not interested in such an evening suggests (and strongly) that your mother is right.

Dear Ann Landers: When a couple gets married is the bride supposed to leave her glove on when the groom places the ring on her finger? It seems clumsy to pull off a glove at the altar, especially one of those very long ones that goes with strapless floor-length gown. Am I right? — MARGE.

Dear Marge: Plain, ordinary good sense ought to tell you that a ring placed over a glove makes no sense. A ring which fits your finger would never go on over your glove.

And a bride should not be wearing a strapless gown. The traditional bridal gown has long sleeves, (summer and winter) and usually the bride is ungloved. If she wishes to wear long gloves, she should select those with three or more buttons at the wrist so she can conveniently slip out her hand and avoid peeling off 18 inches of glove.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teenagers if you write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Ann Landers will be glad to

Casting Director For Art Show A Former Sedalian

A former Sedalian plays quite a part as casting director in the annual living art festival held for a month in Laguna Beach, Calif., each summer. She is Lucile Smith Gilbert, daughter of the late Man-love Smith, and a cousin of Mrs. Harry Collins, 629 East 11th. She grew up in Sedalia and married a Sedalia boy. They moved to the state of California, but she comes back now and then on a visit.

A story entitled "The World's Liveliest Art Show," by Frank J. Taylor, appears in the July 15 issue of the Saturday Evening Post and mentions Mrs. Gilbert a number of times.

The month long show in which men, women and children of Laguna, a town of 9,000, depict famous paintings, where, when necessary, volunteers take off their clothes and housewives paint them with a white "goop" and for from a minute to 90 seconds they pose for the love of art.

Since 1958 the same show has presented every night, but with

Soap Box Derby Fever Grips Entrants

Big Crowd Expected At Race Track

Three-day Program Includes Parade And Queen Contest

SOAP BOX DERBY fever appears to have a good grip on the more than 100 Central Missouri youngsters who will take part in the program here Derby weekend, next Friday, Saturday and Sunday. There are 58 boys entered in the derby race and more than 50 girls are vying for the title, Queen of the Soap Box Derby. All the youngsters are between the ages of 11 and 15, and the "fever" is running high.

Apparently there's going to be a lot of people on hand to view the first Derby to be staged in central Missouri. Letters, cards, and phone calls have been pouring in to the Jaycees, sponsors of the program, all seeking information about the race.

There's going to be lots of thrills for both spectators and participants. There's going to be one especially happy boy and a happy girl when the events are all over. There's going to be some happy parents. There'll be some slightly sad parents and several youngsters who will lose

INSPECTION LINEUP—More than 50 Soap Box Derby champion hopefuls line up to get their stamp of approval on their months of work building the cars they will race in the derby next Sunday. The top picture shows

WEIGHT LIMIT 250 — Gordon Scott waits patiently as Fire Chief Emmett Vaught, inside scale house, weighs his car. All cars were weighed before completion to give the boys a chance to increase the weight or be careful not to exceed the maximum allowed — 250 pounds.

SOLVES PROBLEM—Leslie Hale, 1624 West Seventh, has come up with a solution to a problem facing contestants. The problem was getting the sponsors name and the car number painted on the racers. Hale, who was on hand for an inspection of cars recently told some boys he would paint anything they wanted on their car if contestants would bring them out to his home. Early Sunday morning they began to show up and Hale said he would contribute to the Jaycee program by doing the lettering free of charge. (Democrat-Capital photos)

Soap Box Derby Week Set Aside By Silverman's Proclamation

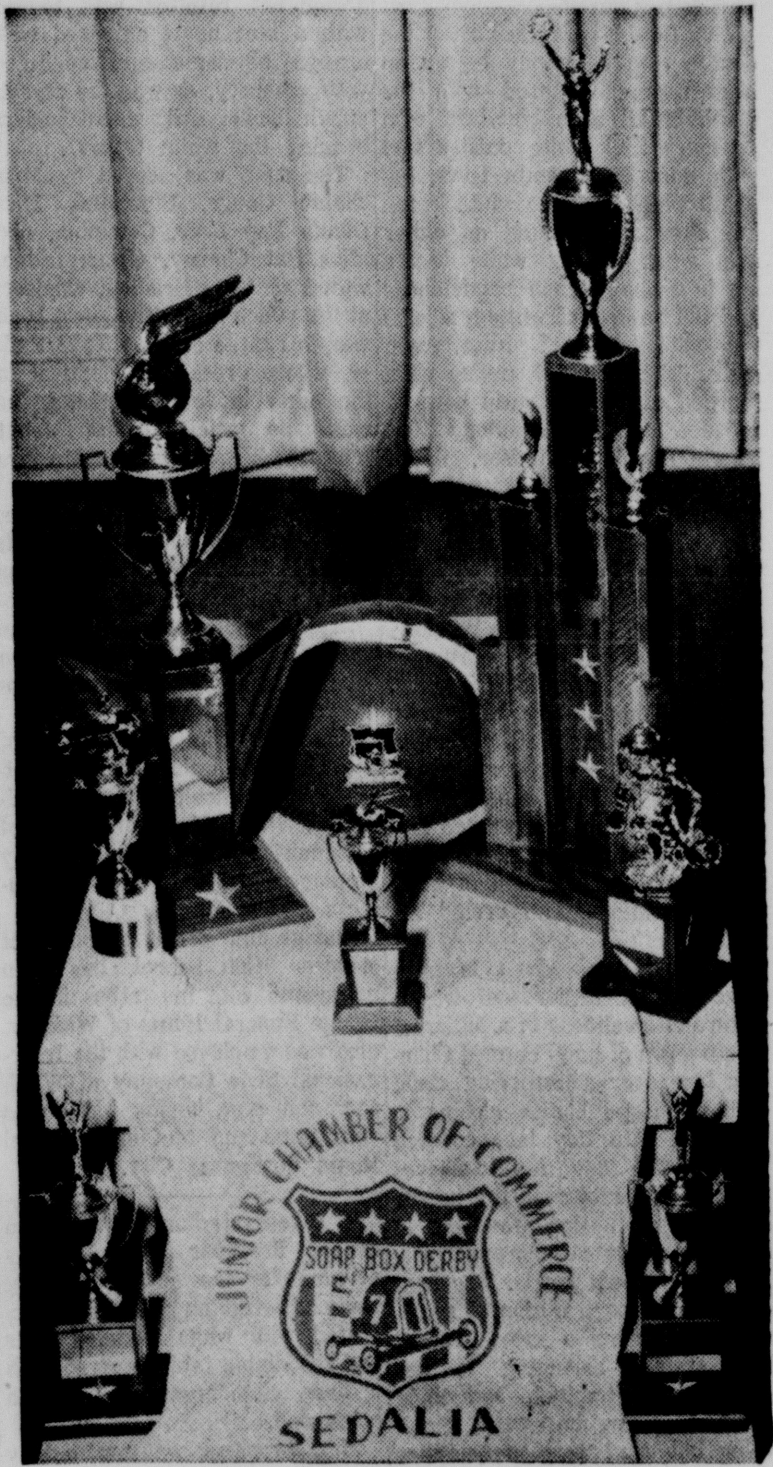

The dates July 16-23 have been set aside as Soap Box Derby Week in Sedalia by official proclamation of Mayor Abe Silverman.

Mayor Silverman's announcement cited the opportunity created by the derby race for Sedalia's youth to compete in a spirit of sportsmanship in supervised races of their own gravity-propelled cars in accordance with national rules.

"This event stimulates American ingenuity, enterprise and sportsmanship in the youth of our community . . . and creates a splendid spirit of goodwill, cooperation and friendship among civic organizations and among citizens," the proclamation stated.

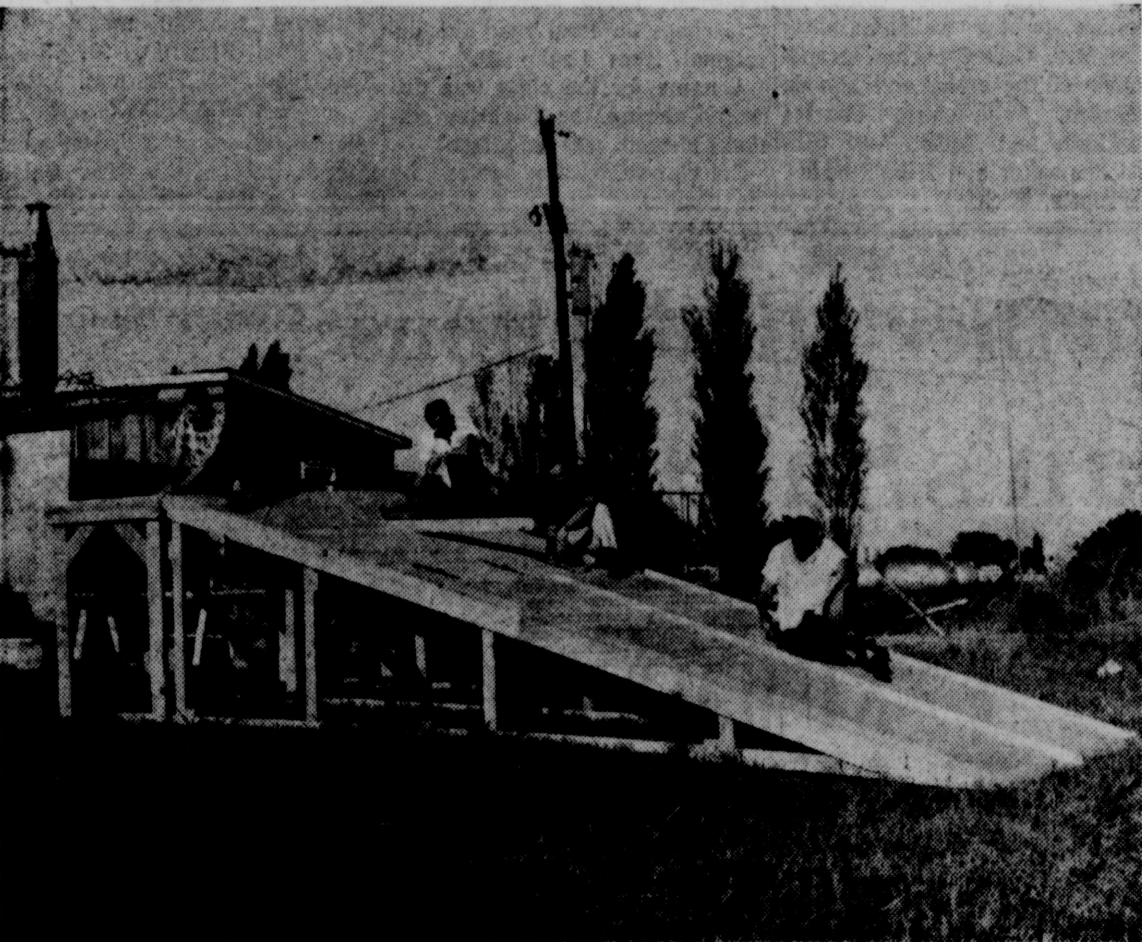

Special events prior to the derby is a Derby Queen contest Friday, which will take place July 21, at Convention Hall and a parade downtown, Saturday, July 22, with the actual race slated for Sunday afternoon, July 23, at the State Fairgrounds.

DERBY TROPHIES — These are the trophies, all except the championship trophy provided by the Chevrolet Company, to be awarded at the Soap Box Derby Race. The two trophies in front are to be awarded to the second place of the Class A and Class B heat finals. In the back row of trophies, the one at left will go to the best designed car; the next one goes to the second place winner in the championship race; the center trophy will go to the car with the best working brakes; the tall trophy, being awarded by the Chamber of Commerce to the champion will change hands each year; and the small trophy at right in the back row, will go to the winner of the race between Sam Boyle, president of the Chamber of Commerce and Mayor Abe Silverman. Each entrant will receive his own personal racing helmet and T-shirt also displayed here.

PARENTS INTERESTED TOO — Both boys and fathers gather around this partially completed racer for a close look-see. Going over the rule book is Bill Bridges, assistant derby director.

STARTING RAMP—Soap Box Derby contestants' gravity-propelled cars will get their starting run, at the race Sunday July 23, from this specially constructed ramp which features its own triggering device. Shown working on the ramp are Jaycees (left to right) Allen

Hawkins, Ed Snively, Ray Young and Jack Allega. The cars will race two at a time and the ramp is designed to boost the cars to a speed of about 32 miles per hour by the time they cross the finish line. The track is located just south of the Pittsburgh-Corning plant on the State Fairgrounds property.

Believes Some Have Lived Another Life In the Past

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) —Are there persons living today who lived another life in another body — perhaps in some bygone century?

An eminent University of Virginia psychiatrist isn't sure, but he says he has found enough evidence in a 10-year study to warrant further investigation.

For additional proof he is leaving Saturday for India and Ceylon, where several children claim to have memories of another life.

The doctor, Ian Stevenson, is professor of neurology and psychiatry and chairman of that department at the university's School of Medicine. He will work under a grant from the Parapsychology Foundation in New York.

He says succinctly, "There is some evidence that part of the human organism survives physical death." He says he is not referring to any organic part of the body, but "to what was called the soul in the 19th century."

Speaking of case studies of children who claim to have lived before, Dr. Stevenson says, "apparent memories of this kind are fragmentary, and usually fade as the children get older. Such children usually remember from a dozen to 20 items, and these are usually scenes of strong emotion.

al significance, such as the death of a mother or father."

Dr. Stevenson said he hopes to release a full report within a year on one case—this one involving a woman in Philadelphia.

He said that under hypnosis the woman undergoes a personality change and switches from English to an early form of Swedish dialect. Out of hypnosis, she speaks no Swedish at all and has no apparent connection with such a background.

If this sounds much like the famous case of the Pueblo, Colo., housewife who believed she was Bridey Murphy in 19th Century Ireland, Dr. Stevenson isn't worried. He believes in the evidence produced in that study, but adds it is not one of the best examples.

Dr. Stevenson said he is going to India for a seven-week visit because cases suggesting a previous existence are more prevalent there than in Europe or America. He said that perhaps the Buddhist and Hindu beliefs in reincarnation provide a favorable climate for stories of this kind.

In his studies, Dr. Stevenson acknowledges the possibility of a fantasy. It is entirely possible, he said, that the person could have learned the information through such normal channels as a news-

Mrs. Dorothy Orcutt, who is completing eight years in Africa under the World Gospel Mission, Marion, Ind., is coming home, and plans to arrive in Sedalia Aug. 4.

Miss Orcutt, who is the daughter of Mrs. Lois Orcutt, 409 South Montgomery, is a graduate of Smith-Cotton High School. She is a registered nurse, having trained at Missouri Methodist Hospital in St. Joseph. She has worked off and on for a number of years at Bothwell Hospital. Mrs. C. D. Harper of Houstonia and Mrs. L. A. Stroup of Pilot Grove, are sisters of Miss Orcutt.

In a very interesting letter to paper, a family member or an acquaintance.

He admits, "This aspect of parapsychology is not yet recognized by many as a branch of science. There is slender evidence, nothing like proof. But the evidence of survival that we do have, slight though it is, justifies much more investigation."

Before coming to the University of Virginia four years ago, Dr. Stevenson, 42, a native of Montreal, Canada, was an associate professor of psychiatry at the Louisiana State University School of Medicine in New Orleans, and was a consultant in psychiatry to the Louisiana Department of Public Welfare and the Southeast Louisiana State Hospital.

her many Central Missouri friends she writes:

"In a few weeks I will be completing a five year term of service in Urundi, Africa, and then I will be Sedalia bound!

"Urundi is a land of contrasts—cars and bicycles whiz past on roads which have been hewn out of the wilderness with many hours of back breaking toil with hoes and grass knives. Trucks haul tons of cargo while back among the hills and trudging along on the side of the road are hundreds and hundreds of people still carrying heavy burdens on their heads.

"Homes range from grass huts, with mud and bamboo partitions separating the cows, sheep and goats from the living quarters of the family, to burned brick houses with concrete floors and corrugated sheet metal roofing.

"Urundi is a small country which has leaned heavily on outsiders to lead her but now is in the throes of a struggle to be born a nation. She comes up this time having been governed by a complicated arrangement of subchiefs, chiefs and a king. Later, these in turn worked with the German, and more recently, the Belgian government. But soon she will be evolved into a nation in her own right.

"My experiences have been many and varied. Much of my time here has been a daily routine of living. Ours was a 5 bed hospital but which last year was doubled in capacity by the erecting of two new ward buildings.

"My days have been filled with working closely with the doctor, treating the sick and attending to the many thousands of details of converting some 14 or 16 African fellows from raw savages, who have lived intimately with dirt and filth, into germ conscious, God fearing, trustworthy dispensers. One capable of doing the work of a registered nurse, giving injections, pills, sterilizing supplies and even being first assistant to the doctor in surgery.

"Diseases all too frequently become complicated through neglect to see treatment early or by first being treated by the local witch doctor. Cases in point: the man who died with an intestinal obstruction caused by a massive worm infestation. (We pulled yards and yards of tape worm out through his nose and I'm sure there were many more yards in his abdomen). The woman with a very advanced osteo of the mandible secondary to a simple tooth cavity. The schizophrenic who, but within walking distance of a psychiatrist and shock therapy, was permitted to murder his father before he was brought to us for treatment.

"Our treatments have not been limited to humans. There were several cows with broken horns; another with a malignant tumor of the eyeball which we removed; a goat which had been attacked by a leopard whose torn skin we sewed; a calf whose burns we treated after it was caught in a burning house. What better treatment could you get from the white man? After all, cows are held in great esteem — perhaps a notch or two above wives. "Interpersed with hospital responsibilities have been trip after trip in the big truck to the valley to bring up the newly made bricks — the doctor and the workmen made 70,000 of them last summer and burned them in a kiln, for use in building the new ward units.

"Then last Sunday morning found the gardener and me out making 55 gallons of tea. Ours was not a silver tea service. Instead we made it in a 55 gallon steel drum. We served some four or five hundred people that day—they had come to tell the doctor and his family goodbye before they left on furlough.

"And now I am about to leave it all and return to a different way of life. Five years away from super markets, TV, pasteurized milk, stop lights and parking meters, dentists and gas ranges and many other things which I thought were necessary for a happy existence. There will be adjustments to make — remake, not the last of which is to learn to live without these things which have been mine to enjoy these eight years. Roots have gone surprisingly deep."

But, she ends her letter saying she is looking forward to renewing old acquaintances and making new ones in the Sedalia area, and very shortly she will be back home to do just that.

Vows Of Miss Donna Brashear And Mr. Wayne Gouge Solemnized

Miss Donna Brashear, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Brashear of Calhoun, became the bride of Mr. Wayne Gouge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Gouge of Windsor, at five o'clock in the afternoon of Saturday, July 1, in a beautiful church wedding at the Calhoun Christian Church.

The Rev. Clyde Hall read the double ring ceremony before an altar setting centered with the white bridal arch entwined with greenery and white daisies tied with mint green satin bows, beneath which was the white kneeling altar and flanked on either side with glowing white tapers set in seven branch candelabras and tall baskets of white gladiolas tied with bows of mint green satin. The family pews were marked with white satin bows.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Harris Douglas, Windsor, played a prelude of the traditional wedding music. She also accompanied the soloists, Miss Janet White, Clinton, as she sang "Because" and following the wedding vows Mr. Darrel Dundas, Windsor, who sang "The Lord's Prayer," as the couple knelt at the altar.

Candlelighters were Miss Brenda Dalton, Kansas City, cousin of the bride, and Miss Teresa Pearcey, Springfield, cousin of the groom, who wore full skirted lavender frocks with matching headbands and wrist corsages of white baby carnations with orchid accents.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was a picture of loveliness in a ballerina length gown of hand clipped Chantilly lace over shimmering satin, with a basque bodice closing in the back with tiny lace covered buttons. The long fitted sleeves tapered to points over the hands. Her veil of illusion was held in place with a tiara of orange blossoms and seed pearls. She also carried out the tradition of something old, being a lace trimmed handkerchief belonging to her great grandmother, something new, something borrowed, something blue and wore in her shoe a lucky penny presented her by her grandmother, Mrs. Dannatt.

Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls, the gift of the groom. She carried a lace covered white Bible, given her by her YWA leader, Mrs. Arch Ketchum. Mr. Ketchum and Bob, centered with a single orchid edged with Stephanotis from which trailed English Ivy and a shower of white satin ribbon tied in love knots.

Her matron of honor was Mrs. Gerald Slack, Clinton, who wore a mint green cotton dress fashioned with fitted bodice, scoop neckline coming to a deep V in the back, short puff sleeves and a full gathered skirt. She wore a matching headband.

Serving as bridesmaids were Mrs. James Tullis, Windsor, and Miss Judy Ketchum, Calhoun, dressed identically to the matron of honor. Each wore white accessories and carried bouquets of white carnations tied with mint green bows.

Best man for the groom was a close friend, Mr. Wesley Christy of Windsor, Mr. Don Bullock and Mr. Wayne Gardner, also of Windsor, were groomsmen. They also acted as ushers.

Little Janice Fern Brashear, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Brashear, Hartsburg, as flower girl was dressed in orchid cotton with a peter pan collar, short puff sleeves and a bouffant skirt. She scattered rose petals from a white straw basket tied with orchid satin bows.

The ring bearer, carrying the two wedding bands on a white satin pillow, was Master Terry Pearcey, Springfield, a cousin of the groom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Brashear chose a beige cotton and Cupioni dress with lace inserts in sleeves and bodice with white accessories. The groom's mother wore a beige silk organza with white accessories and both wore white carnation corsages. Mrs. W. H. Zumwalt, grandmother of the groom, wore rose pink silk crepe, Mrs. Lyle Dannatt, maternal grandmother of the bride, chose beige basketweave nylon and Mrs. Wallace Bridgewater, the bride's paternal grandmother, wore a gray and white printed dacron jersey. All wore white accessories and white carnation corsages.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held for the nearly 300 guests in the church dining room. The bride's table was covered with white lace over orchid and festooned with orchid nylon net tied at each corner with white satin bows.

The four tiered wedding cake decorated with orchid roses, white lilies, sweetheart harps, silver outlined white wedding bells and orchid net rosettes was topped with a lace heart entwined with orange blossoms and encircled with greenery, as was the crystal punch bowl and candleholders bearing the white tapers.

The cake was served by Miss Elaine Gouge, Stoutland, Miss Donna Fay Lear, Columbia, and Miss Pat Chaney, Green Ridge, with Mrs. Gary Bradley, Windsor, at the punch bowl. The guest book was in charge of Miss Kaye Failor, whose dress was identical to the other bridal attendants, as was the soloist, Miss Janet White's. Miss Phyllis Masters was in charge of the gifts.

For her going away costume, the bride wore a white sheath with black and white accessories and an orchid corsage.

After a short wedding trip, the young couple is at home in an apartment at 3431 Gillham, Kansas City.

The bride was valedictorian of the 1961 graduating class of Calhoun High School, is also a graduate of the IBM Training School of Kansas City and is presently employed with the Phillips Petroleum Co. of Kansas City.

The groom, a 1959 graduate of Windsor High School, has been associated with his father in the Gouge Funeral Home of Windsor, also was employed with the International Shoe Company of Windsor, and now begins his duties with Stine and McClure Funeral Home in Kansas City.

A rehearsal dinner was given at the Brashear home Friday evening for the entire wedding party. The dining room was decorated with white wedding bells and the dining table covered with a linen cloth centered with a bride doll.

Mrs. Brashear was assisted by Mrs. Kenneth Onwiler, Mrs. M. R. Munday and Mrs. Arch Ketchum in serving the 50 guests present.

Knob Noster Class Of '41 Has Reunion

The Knob Noster graduating class of 1941 held their second reunion with a banquet in the Ambassador Room of the Bothwell Hotel in Sedalia Saturday evening.

Sunday afternoon the class met at the Knob Noster High School and L. C. Clark, board member, conducted them on a tour of the present school facilities. Later the class and their families met at Grover Memorial Park in Warrensburg.

Games for the children were under the direction of Mary Beth and Donna Costigan. The afternoon was spent getting acquainted with the families and visiting. Refreshments were served.

An attempt was made to contact each of the 23 graduates and response was received from all but three of the class, Nina Bell Adams Leal, Charles Thompson and Junita Utt Dickie.

Letters and questionnaires were sent to each one in April of this year giving the time and place of the reunion. Also enclosed was a questionnaire to be filled in and printed in a book which was presented to each one and mailed to those who could not attend.

Class members, their wives or husbands, were met at the banquet by Richard Dowses, former class president, and Kenneth Glazebrook, former vice president. Mr. Glazebrook, master of ceremonies, welcomed everyone. Estel Lee Currutt gave the invocation.

In keeping with the class colors of green and gold, the tables were decorated with yellow crepe paper streamers and green candles in crystal candleholders. The place cards had bells with gold lettering "1941" tied with green ribbon. The class flower, the yellow rose, was used in table bouquets and corsages for each of the ladies. The men wore yellow mum boutonnières.

The dinner served was the same menu as that served to the Junior-Senior banquet in 1941. Dinner music was provided by Miss Lillian Fox, organist. She played tunes which were popular back in the high school days of the class.

During the evening the classmates recalled the many incidents that happened during their time together. The class history, written in 1941 by Louise Peithman Barrett, was read by the former secretary-treasurer, Opal Yokley Maher.

A bulletin board displayed pictures and letters of those who could not be present, souvenirs of the class and old time photographs. It was noted all members of the class are still living.

Mrs. Joe E. Hartman

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Kay Carter And Joe Hartman

At nine o'clock in the morning Tuesday, July 11, at St. Andrew's Catholic Church in Tipton, Miss Kay Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John N. Carter, Tipton, exchanged wedding vows with Mr. Joe E. Hartman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe J. Hartman, Tipton. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Harry S. Cavannah before an altar decorated with baskets of white flowers.

Mrs. Oscar Schmidt, church organist, played traditional wedding music before the ceremony and accompanied the choir as they sang, "On This Day, Oh Beautiful Mother," "Ave Maria," and "Oh Lord, I Am Not Worthy."

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over net and delustered taffeta. The lace trimmed fitted bodice had a scalloped Sabrina neckline outlined with iridescent sequins and tiny seed pearls and traditional long sleeves coming to a point over the wrists. The bouffant skirt of tulle over tiers of ruffled net was highlighted with hand-clipped lace appliques arranged in panels extending the full length of the skirt. A starched lace halfcap edged with seed pearls held her fingertip veil of imported French illusion and she carried a white orchid corsage with long streamers on a white prayer book.

Miss Norma Hainen attended the bride as maid of honor and Miss Janice Worley as bridesmaid. Their street length dresses of orchid nylon organza over taffeta were styled identically with scooped necklines, which dipped to a V in back, short sleeves, and bouffant gathered skirts. They wore matching headpieces of layers of organza bows and carried bouquets of white asters accented with net and ribbon streamers. Short white gloves completed their ensembles.

The groom chose Mr. Ronald Orscheln for his best man and Mr. Kenneth Hartman as groomsman. Serving as ushers were Mr. Eddie Wolf, Mr. Jerry Hartman, Mr. Jerry Lut and Mr. Bob Carter, brother of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Carter wore a dress of mint green silk voile with white accessories and Mrs. Hartman, mother of the groom, chose a sheer navy blue dress and white accessories. Both mother's corsages were of white asters.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at Kueper Center, which was decorated with orchid and white streamers and white wedding bells. The bridal table was centered by a three-tier wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom. Serving the cake and punch were Miss Gloria Newkirk and Miss Marilyn Prestage. Miss Bernadette Hartman, sister of the groom, was in charge of

Joey Bishop Is Tired Of Club Circuit

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Word is that the Joey Bishop Show is the hot television entry for the fall season—but deadpan Joey isn't moving his family out here yet.

Said Bishop: "I'm renting a house in Beverly Hills for the summer but I still keep the one in Englewood, N.J. My boy, Larry, is out here for the summer, but I'll start him in school back home again in the fall."

"We're making 26 films with options for 13 more. If the series goes, I'll come out here for good—not before."

Joey, a night club comic, does not care if he ever plays a saloon again.

"I'd like some of this Hollywood home life for a change. I told Jack Entratter I might play the Sands for him in Las Vegas once in a while—but no more of the tour."

That is, of course, if the TV series hits. If not, Joey says he will gladly go back to the clubs.

Currently, he is appearing with Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin, Sammy Davis Jr. and Peter Lawford in "Soldiers 3."

The five of them also work together as a night club act—the Summit Conference. Amazingly, it is Bishop who is the catalyst for the group of performing giants.

His jokes, delivered with that serious look, hold the act together. Once in Las Vegas when the then presidential candidate, John F. Kennedy, was in the audience, Bishop quipped:

"I know, senator, that if you get elected, Sinatra will ask to be ambassador to Italy and Sammy Davis ambassador to Israel. But me, I'm not asking for anything like that."

A pause—and then that serious delivery:

"I'd just appreciate it if you could fix it so I wouldn't get drafted again."

Kennedy roared.

A Rural-Urban Meet Is Slated

The Rural-Urban Day meeting will be held at the Frank Riley farm on Highway 13, north of Warrensburg, on July 27, for which an interesting program has been planned, according to Dick Monsees, president of the Pettis County Farm Bureau.

A noon luncheon will be a highlight of the program at 12:15 p.m. which will be prepared and served by the women's activities committee of the Pettis County Farm Bureau, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Virgil Quint.

The Rural-Urban Day will begin at 10 a.m. and facts about the economics of the livestock and meat industry, as well as the dairy industry, will be presented by farmers, market experts and economists from the College of Agriculture.

"The livestock and dairy business accounts for about 65 per cent of the farm income of this area," Monsees said. "The creation of this new wealth on the farms has a tremendous effect on the social and economic stability of the community. To spend a little time appraising the factors that affect the economy of the area is a genuine opportunity and privilege for both producers and businessmen," he added.

Paris Offers Theater Fans Wide Variety

By WILLIAM GLOVER
Associated Press Drama Writer

PARIS (AP) — You name it, Paris has it this summer in dazzling theater variety.

For the moment, New York and London—those other key hubs of stage endeavor—lag behind their sister by the Seine in sheer diversity and, in some degree, quality.

This is a prime impression gained by a show fan on a European trek.

Of course not everyone agrees. One matron sighed as she arrived on shipboard for the long voyage home, "I can hardly wait to get back to Broadway and see some of those shows."

Tired of all that foreign talk, the lady, bless her, wanted Times Square's unsullied specialty—smash, commercial musicals.

In contrast to that melody mood, the English theater dispenses tradition, sleek comedy and a few angry young jeers.

Taking a bit of each of these, Paris provides something more—solid, serious dramatic endeavor.

The wide-ranging assortment of a single week includes Racine, Hugo, Chekhov, Ionesco, Beckett, Sartre, Shakespeare and Claudel.

The assortment is currently augmented by the imported offerings of the six-month international drama festival, with performers from 40 nations.

Among the three capitals of stagecraft, another difference is the mood of the audience. Times Square has the escapist throng. The West End calls fans desiring a relaxed outing.

Neither would be apt to sustain serious religious drama with an attentive matinee throng while the outside world beams with sunshine. Paris does.

The French delight in the deep and weird.

By coincidence, eight shows previously seen in New York are here, and eight Yankee inventions are on exhibit in London.

The Paris complement includes "Dear Liar," "Becket," "Clerambard," "The Respectful Prostitute," "Waiting for Godot," "The Caine Mutiny," "The Bald Soprano" and "Pate."

The eight American items on in London include "The Music Man," "The Tenth Man," "My Fair Lady," "Bye Bye Birdie," "The Andersonville Trial," "The Sound of Music," "The World of Suzie Wong" and "The Miracle Worker."

thing else. I just like Rye, that's all."

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Robert Preston, "The Music Man," is riding high in Hollywood again—but he doesn't intend to move back here.

"My home is in Rye, N. Y.," says Preston. "I'm the only actor in town. Everybody knows me and I know everybody."

Governor Seeks Drought Aid

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Gov. John M. Dalton has asked the federal government to declare Schuyler, Scotland and Adair counties a disaster area eligible for drought aid.

"Although many regions of the state were plagued by heavy rains," the governor said in a telegram Friday to Orville Freeman, secretary of agriculture, "these counties have received less than one-half inch precipitation since May 15."

"Many farmers are being forced to sell their cattle because of dried up pasture lands and other serious conditions do exist."

Floods caused many counties along the Missouri and Mississippi rivers to be declared disaster areas earlier this year.

Acetylsalicylic Not Candy

One of the handiest medications found in any home is acetylsalicylic acid — that little white pill familiarly called aspirin. Although its proper place is in a medicine chest or some place far out of reach of tiny hands, aspirin generally speaking, is treated casually without regard to potential harm. Invariably women's pocket-books contain a small tin or loose aspirins; men carry them around, too.

Aspirins have become an essential crutch for hypochondriacs, those with morbid anxiety over their own health who conjure up imaginary ailments. This acid pill, however, cannot be sold short as a relief expedient in many categories of temporary physical distress from headaches almost to sore toes. It seemed to work for us in a bout with the ague this week.

Notwithstanding all the relief these tiny pellets bring to the human race, this vehicle of acetylsalicylic acid has certain hazards if used to extreme, especially by children. It may be of interest to Sedalians that a study of 94 accidental poisonings in children reveals that in all but one instance the child had been told the pills were "candy."

The study was reported by Dr. Roger J. Meyer, Boston, in the current American Journal of Diseases of Children, published by the American Medical Association.

"This medication was used for virtually every illness or indisposition suffered by family members with or without fever. Parents admitted that they encouraged acceptance by presenting aspirin to children as "candy", and felt that this was an important factor in their children's ingestion of it."

Cases studied involved children from one to five years old and were selected from 313 cases of poisonings reported to the Boston Information Center during a 12-month period.

The study showed that 62 of the children shared the aspirin with playmates. Sweetened aspirin was taken by the youngsters in 84 instances, Dr. Meyer said. In 17 cases aspirin was being used for an illness in the family. In 29 cases, precautions had been taken but the child showed unusual resourcefulness in obtaining the tablets. In 48 cases, there was generally unsatisfactory health supervision or lack of understanding of the children's needs.

"All families had a special place for medications, but two factors eliminated this family safeguard: (1) family ignorance concerning the dangers of acetylsalicylic acid and (2) general lack of safety precautions against household hazards," Dr. Meyer commented.

Aspirin is not only the most common childhood poison, but its widespread use, attractive taste, as well as the late appearance of its toxic symptoms make it a particular threat to families with young children.

Allowance Gives Child Exercises In Independence

MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Dear Mrs. Lawrence:

Though our 8-year-old's playmates get regular allowances, my husband says he isn't sure it's right to give one to our boy.

He himself had very strict parents and never had any spending money until he started earning it himself. He promises to read what you say if you will discuss allowances in your column. Do you believe in them?

ANSWER: Yes.

I approve a regular (and moderate) allowance because it gives a child regular exercise in knowing what he wants, deciding on what he can have and getting it. His allowance gives him a little area for independent wishing and satisfaction — a very important gift, indeed. If we deny it to him what happens is that we exert a hidden supervision of all his wishes. Not only do we form them for him but make ourselves the sole source of their realization.

We all know grownups whose wishes seem to be unreal to them.

Such a person will want a new garage roof but want it so halfheartedly that he never orders it. He will dream of a salary raise but never ask for it because the wish drifts vaguely and unformed just under the surface of his consciousness. He'll envy his neighbor a new car but he's quite incapable of recognizing his envy as his wish for one of his own.

He's usually a dissatisfied, irritable person who suffers from chronic annoyance at the world for not recognizing his wishes for him and fulfilling them. Often, if you ask him if he received an allowance as a child, he'll say "No." But he may never connect his weakened capacity for wishing with parents who did all his wishing for him and made themselves the sole source of its realizations.

Domination expresses itself in many ways, all of them sounding noble, kind and generous.

Parents who deny allowances to children are seldom aware that their denial may express their hidden desire to monopolize control of all young wishing and getting. So, asked for an allowance, they look sad and hurt. They say: "Don't we always anticipate all your wishes for you? Of course we do. You had better find some gratitude rather than asking for money we work so hard to get to buy what you need."

Hormone Pills Won't Banish Unwanted Facial Hair

By Harold Thomas Hyman, M.D.

Q — Are there any hormone pills that can be taken to remove hair permanently from the face?

A — No. But permanent removal (epilation) can be accomplished by electrolysis in the hands of a competent person, preferably a dermatologist.

Q — My son has neurofibromatosis, according to our doctor. Is this the same as Von Recklinghausen's disease? Is there a cure? He has tumors all over his body, especially along the collarbone and neck. Can these turn to cancer?

A — Neurofibromatosis is a benign disturbance. As you've already been told, there's no cure since no cure is needed. The tumors do not tend to become cancerous. If they are in an awkward place or cause pain, they should be removed surgically. No risk is involved.

Q — Is it advisable to have reconstructive surgery after radical removal of the breast for cancer?

A — I should oppose further surgery after a radical operation for breast cancer (mastectomy). It is much wiser to content one's self with the removal of the growth and satisfy one's vanity with an artificial substitute that can be made to order.

Q — I have two children, ages 2 and 1. Both suffer from recurrent chest colds. X-rays show evidences of pneumonia though neither child has much fever or any other symptoms I've been led to associate with pneumonia. Then, too, they both have loose bowels and the stools are usually shiny and foul smelling. They've both been taking antibiotics almost constantly but nothing seems to help. Is there anything else that can be done?

A — What you seem to be describing is the disturbance called cystic fibrosis. In this disease of increasing importance in modern pediatrics, the primary disturbance is related to digestive functions while the lung complications are secondary. At the National Institute of Health, in Bethesda, Md., intensive studies are being conducted. These point up the primary importance of diet. Details may be obtained from the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation of 1616 Walnut St., Philadelphia 3, Pa.

Dear Reader: Dr. Hyman appreciates your comments and questions but regrets that the heavy volume of his mail doesn't permit him to answer each individual letter or post card. However, he will comment in columns like the above upon matters of general or unusual interest.

REA Experiences Dynamic Policy Change Under JFK

By Robert E. Hennessee
DP&R Special Service—

WASHINGTON — The Kennedy administration has turned on the electricity over at the Rural Electrification Administration, where, for eight years, they had to use candle light.

In probably no other agency of government has there been such a dynamic change in policy as that experienced by REA in recent months.

The last Secretary of Agriculture, Ezra Taft Benson, was strictly an anti-REA man. And under him, the cardinal rule to be followed in considering a loan application was: "Are there any grounds for denying the loan?"

Today, under Secretary Orville Freeman and REA Administrator Norman M. Clapp, this rule has been reversed to read: "Are there any grounds for making the loan?"

Clapp is a former weekly newspaper publisher from Wisconsin and took over REA in March. Given a free hand by Secretary Freeman, he promptly set about throwing switches.

The most sweeping change he has made, and one which affects basic philosophy, is that REA will grant loans to electric co-ops "to protect the security and effectiveness of the REA-financed systems."

Heretofore, loans have been granted only because, one, they would solve a power shortage, or, two, they would reduce power costs to consumers.

Under Clapp's "security and effectiveness" ruling, loans, at least in theory, could be granted local power cooperatives for almost any reason. Needless to say, most private power officials are appalled.

Clapp also has put the Kennedy administration firmly against the "dual rates" contracts, whereby private generating firms sell power to cooperatives at one rate for thinly populated areas and a higher rate for more densely populated areas or industrial areas. This often enables the private firm to outbid the co-op in the more lucrative area.

The previous administration fought long and hard, but without success to increase the two percent interest rate on REA loans. Congress wouldn't go along. It is safe to say there will be no rate increase under the Democratic administration which is all for the low-cost financing.

One of the chief gripes the electric cooperatives had against Secretary Benson was his policy of reviewing all REA loan applications. It is no secret that when an application reached his desk it would stay there a long time and might never get off.

With great fanfare, the new administration announced that the Secretary no longer would review the loan applications. And as another speed-up in granting loans, Clapp is planning to set up a new Power Supply Division with power to make fast decisions on loan applications in trouble spots.

Says Quiet Hens Produce More Eggs

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — A Czechoslovak veterinarian claims he has discovered a new way to make a hen lay more eggs—"break her of the habit of clucking."

Dr. J. Finc wrote in the Communist party newspaper Rude Pravo that a clucking hen lays fewer eggs and he has found a synthetic hormone to silence the chicken. He predicted his discovery will increase Czechoslovakia's egg production by millions in the next few years.

"What Is Man?"

By Ralph W. Loew, D. D.
Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Are things as they seem to be or are they something else? Not only the important, news-producing meetings and headline-catching events, but also the simpler things of life?

For instance, a door is a door. Yet just down the street there is a building being demolished and a fence has been built of old doors. There is something sad about a door becoming a fence.

Or there was the situation in Haiti where an enterprising American with misguided principles made old American flags into grease-wiping cloths. There was something sad and disrespectful in a flag becoming a dustcloth.

It is easy to see this distortion of a door or a flag. It is another matter when it happens to a human being. A man is a man, and it ought to be obvious in these days that millions of years of history have gone into this meaningful recognition. Today history is re-emphasizing the fact that one of the essential struggles is over the question, "What is man?"

The writer of the Psalms put it strikingly many centuries ago. Man was little lower than the angels which meant that he was much higher than any other form of creation. He had the possibility ties of the angelic, and the man who wrote the words had had experience with man's devilry.

He still kept faith in this majestic possibility of a man.

We live in times when our headlines are clogged with the horrors of man's degradation: Genocide, intolerance, bigotry, hatred and warfare lay their claims upon man's conscience. Beyond all of this there is the difficulty which besets each of us daily. We use terms such as "labor potential" or "industrial factor." Those terms are used about men.

If it is sad that a door or a flag is distorted in meaning, who rises up to protest this distortion of the human being?

In this polite society it is "the self who is selfed," as Kierkegaard phrased it. The very people who are shocked by the knowledge of gas chambers, become guilty of a similar lack of understanding of themselves and their fellow human beings.

Thus the polite people of society can accept attitudes which prepare the way for the monsters and tyrants who destroy them.

It is a sobering moral discovery to understand that a door is a door and a flag is a flag. It is a triumphant moral discovery to learn that a man is a man, and a child of God made to be just a little lower than the angels.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

FCC Chairman Becomes a Target

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — It's supposed to be a trade secret, but word has been passed out from some of the top moguls of the broadcasting industry to "Get Minow." This refers to the new chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, Newton Minow, who had the temerity to blast crime, sex, blood-and-thunder television.

Certain telecasters have been in a slow boil ever since, and have started a quiet but intensive investigation of Minow's background. If they can come up with something in the way of a smear, they'll use it as hard as they know how.

Only trouble is that Minow has led a very circumspect and apparently righteous life. His chief public career was as law clerk to the late Chief Justice of the United States Fred Vinson, a rugged individualist and battler for human rights. After that, Minow joined the law firm of Adlai Stevenson in Chicago where he kept his nose to the grindstone.

Minow is happily married, with a young family, and likes to spend his evenings at home. The broadcasters' hunt for skulduggery may be disappointing.

Meanwhile, the Federal Communications Commission is continuing to watch crime and sex on television, and the inside word is that TV stations using the "Untouchables" will have their licenses given careful scrutiny when they come up for renewal.

"The Untouchables" focuses on every horrible grime in its scenes of violence and brutality. Here are a few typical scenes:

1. — Gangsters free a kidnapped man after the ransom is paid, then gleefully machine-gun him in the back as he is running and rolling down a hill.

2. — A wife watches with enjoyment as her husband is brutally beaten, ending in a close-up of his bleeding head. Later he comes out of his stupor, goes to her hotel room and guns her down.

3. — A pretty girl is slapped viciously by a gangster. Later 15 carefree girls are mowed down by machine-gun fire, their terror and agony shown close-up for the audience to relish.

4. — A man who squealed to the law has his tongue cut out. His anguish is horrible to behold.

5. — A gangster bears down with a heavy boot on the throat of a man lying down.

The sponsors which have brought these scenes to the nation's homes include Chesterfield cigarettes, Silvikrin shampoo, Dial soap, Anacin, Easy-On spray starch, and Brylcreem hair cream.

Good Credit Rating

Do you feel borne down by the debts accumulating on your back?

Then find what comfort you can in the fact you have lots of company. According to a University of Michigan survey, every other fellow you meet has installment debt, 1 in 3 has a mortgage, and 1 in 4 has piled up some other kind of credit. Many you'll see have multiple burdens.

Yet this doesn't mean we're currently in a wild credit splurge. Survey men found that most families in the past six years have kept installment buying very close to their income prospects.

Despite the overall load, we seem to be keeping things in manageable shape.

Hate By Rate

Four and a half years have passed since Soviet tanks visited bloody repression on Hungary. But somehow the courageous Hungarians keep their normal human instincts vibrant.

A mother wrote Radio Budapest to ask why teen-age children in Communist society had to be taught hate as well as love.

The Red officials who replied said love was indeed a very honorable thing—if not carried too far. They went on:

"It cannot be applied to everybody, only to the overwhelming majority of mankind—the workers. This can be carried out only if we are able to fight and hate . . . the parasite minority."

This answer was undoubtedly broadcast to the background accompaniment of that sturdy Communist theme song: "Hate Is a Many Splendored Thing."

Forget It, Pay Later

We Americans are said to be a very impatient people, eager for quick solutions, immediate gain, and so on. Students of U.S. life muster quite a bit of evidence.

As this applies to the quest for gain, the advantage can on occasion be deceptive. For example, when public-spirited folk talk of the need for setting aside land for recreation areas, it may seem easier and more profitable to go plunging ahead on a planless course.

This is not necessarily so. For recreational needs remain insistent, and are usually met at least in part. Delay simply adds to their cost. A typical comment from a park director: "We're paying for in thousands of dollars an acre what we could have bought for dollars during the depression."

The loss to you — and it can be quite immediate — is in your tax bill.

Soap Box Derby Entry

The time is drawing very near
The Soap Box Derby's almost here,
And Boy! My little car has class.

I'm sure that any it will pass,
It's better looking than the rest.

I'm very certain it's the best,
The smoothest looking one, by far.

Looks like a sure 'nough racing car —
But say, it really was a chore.

I'd never built a car before
And even though Dad and I planned

He couldn't give a helping hand
To help me hammer or to saw.

That's 'gainst the Soap Box Derby law;
I had to make it all alone.

To build the whole thing on my own
And sometimes — I must admit —

When somehow pieces didn't fit
I even wished I hadn't tried.

A weaker man, now, might have cried,
But I kept on and gee, I'm proud.

I'll be the hero of the crowd,
When I weighed in — man alive —

We came to just 245,
This little racing car and me.

Just 250 we had to be
I sorta said a little prayer.

We only had five pounds to spare,
And I'm a little ill at ease.

Because my family likes to tease,
They say each time I start to eat,

(And I like everything that's sweet)
They warn me that I will gain weight.

And then I kinda hesitate—
What if I was disqualified—

To race this thing I'd built with pride?
One week — and then the race we'll run,

I'm sure I'm going to be the one
To win the trip — to win the prize —

With envy from a thousand eyes,
At 11 a.m. we've got to be

At the race track — hope my family
Before that time can get me there

They say they will — but I don't care—
I worry just for fear they won't

Then I don't get to race — I don't —
O, Brother! What a thrill 'twill be

When the winner of that race is me.
Hazel N. Lang.

Guest Editorial

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR: New Kind of Solomons. — Judges on the bench have long lines of precedents to consult and lawyers to advise (or confuse) them, but consider the plight of members of boards of zoning appeals. Theirs, though zoning has been prevalent in American cities for some decades now, is a relatively new field calling for the exercise of wisdom that must come close to artistry.

Take, for example, the case of Sidney Kingsley, author of several successful New York plays. He uses an apartment in a building near Fifth Avenue as an in-town office. Though the building is zoned as residential, it is said that 19 of 51 apartments in it are put to other than residential uses — among them, a public relations office and an art gallery.

But the city contends that the law allows only doctors, dentists, and dancers to practice their profession at home as an incidental use of the residence. Hence play writing and art exhibits are barred.

Not only metropolitan centers but many small cities have similar problems. There's the office worker with a budding life insurance business in his study, the housewife who takes orders for cosmetics or home-made candies, the photographer who is in demand for neighborhood baby pictures? For the courage to tackle borderline cases as to what will or will not irretrievably change the community character, the zoning board member deserves genuine thanks.

The Song of the Open Road Has Some Strange Lyrics

By WARD CANNEL
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — On the face of it, nine out of 10 of us will take our vacations by car this year, more than two-thirds of us by Labor Day. Our average trip will be a record 2,150 miles. It's an even bet that we'll visit more than one place en route.

But once you get past the facts and down to the people in the other car . . . well, the statistics say there's still time to reconsider your vacation plans.

What appears to be happy America on the holiday highway is — to judge from the requests they write to touring services — more than enough to stagger the mind.

From this year's files of one such bureau (the American Oil Co.):

A lady from Indiana, asking for a routing through Colorado, said, "Since I'll be driving through a mountainous area, please route me on the inside lane."

A fellow from Tennessee named his destination and asked for accommodations that would accept a goat.

A trusting soul from Pennsylvania sent in a two-line card: "Where should I go? Routing is up to you."

The Automobile Association of America reports that a lady came into a big Kentucky office and complained, "You've routed me to New York on this map. But how do I find my way back?"

And in New York, a gentleman with an 1895 Indian territory map asked for a routing to Lost City, Nev. — a community site long ago abandoned and actually lost in these intervening 66 years.

The AAA man simply made a mark in a desolate desert area on his current map of Nevada, reasoning simply that if the place didn't exist, it might just as well not exist at that spot.

Another oil company service (Shell) has a batch of indignant letters from Easterners asking why national parks have been set up in such inaccessible places.

Another major touring service, whose motto is "As you travel — ask us," is steadily asked questions like:

"I want to go after mushrooms and in the best way."

Or, "Can you route me from Cincinnati to Los Angeles on roads where no murders have been committed?"

Or, routes through places where moonshine liquor is available, or all-girl colleges with the girls still in them, or areas where there are more men than women.

The stay-at-home vacationers use travel and tour services, as well.

An Oklahoma man wrote to one company that he had three days

VACATION BOUND: Boy, do they need help.

free and so please give him to say she had folks coming to three routings that would get him visit from South Dakota and how out of town and back again in time for milking. She wanted to have dinner ready when they arrived.

Attendance Up At Knob Noster State Park

Attendance at Knob Noster State Park showed nearly a 45,000 increase during the first six months of 1961 compared to similar figures for the past year, according to Joseph Jaeger, Jr., state director of parks.

Jaeger also announced attendance in Missouri state parks had reached a record figure of 2,636,666 persons during the six month period.

Seeking an outing at the Knob Noster park during the period were 162,647 persons, compared to 117,862 at the same time last year. Other attractions listed in the area include Arrow Rock in Saline County and Arrow Rock Tavern which drew approximately 5,000 persons.

Jaeger said attendance in the January through June period of 1961 was 422,087 higher than for the corresponding period of 1960 when a record in park attendance was made.

Total attendance in Missouri State Parks in June was 1,295,633. In 1960, 956,596 persons toured state parks in the month of June.

Roaring River State Park was the attendance leader in Missouri in June this year, Jaeger said, with 304,457 persons using the park. Other attendance leaders were Table Rock, 134,797; Meramec, 104,779; Lake Ozark, 90,091; and Alley Spring, 75,619.

The accumulative total attendance through June this year was 2,636,666 compared to 2,214,579 for the same period of 1960.
